

Transport plan includes 20mph limit in town centre

GREEN LIGHT ON TRAVEL VISION

Report by Alex Ross

A 20mph speed limit in Dudley is part of a transport vision for the next 10 years which has been given the green light.

Improvements to the Midland Metro line and the redevelopment of Dudley bus station are also set out in the blueprint approved by the West Midlands Combined Authority.

Entitled Movement for Growth, the strategy sets out the programme for transport projects over the next decade.

Some of the proposals are already under way, including work on a Midland Metro line from Wednesbury to Brierley Hill and the Merry Hill shopping centre.

Midland Metro

But there are other major schemes for Dudley borough, including the 20mph speed limit in Dudley and the redevelopment of the bus station.

Dudley Port station could also serve as a Metro stop on the Brierley Hill to Wednesbury line, and would also be improved under the plan. There are also plans to improve bus journey times and road safety on the Wolverhampton Road and New Birmingham Road toward Dudley.

Councillor Roger Lawrence, lead member for transport at the WMCA, said: "The delivery plan maps out the way forward for transport in this region in delivering future prosperity."

"Now that this blueprint has been approved we can get to work in putting it into action. These are exciting schemes that will transform transport in our region and steer investment here to create new jobs and homes, building on the significant growth and development already happening through HS2."

The final plan was compiled after a six-week online public consultation. Funding for the programme is now being pursued.

The West Midlands Combined Authority approved the 2026 Delivery Plan for Transport at a meeting in Birmingham.

WORK STARTS FOR BONFIRE NIGHT SPECTACULAR

Jacki Wynn, John Allez and Councillor Ian Kettle are on the lookout for more pallets for the Himley Hall bonfire spectacular

THERE'S no smoke without fire and there's no fire without pallets – according to those in charge of Dudley's big bonfire night event at Himley Hall and Park.

Council chiefs have made a fresh appeal to businesses around the Dudley borough for wooden pallets to help stoke the huge bonfire to be lit on November 4 at Himley Park.

Last year, the event's 40th anniversary, saw more than 1,500 wooden pallets used to build the bonfire after an appeal to residents and businesses. The Guy Fawkes night festivities, which also features a fireworks spectacular set to music, regularly attracts around 20,000 visitors.

Council bosses are now appealing to companies for help by donating and delivering unbroken or unwanted wooden pallets.

Councillor Ian Kettle said: "The fireworks and bonfire display at Himley is the largest council-run display in the country. Every year the event is tremendously supported by local companies donating huge numbers of pallets and we hope this time it will be no different."

He added that garden rubbish and old furniture could not be accepted. Call (01384) 817817 if you have pallets to offer.

The collision took place as the pedestrian crossed Lawnswood Road near to the Sainsbury's Local. Our thoughts at this time are with the family." Anyone with information can call the police on 101.

Missed targets could cost £250k

RUSSELLS Hall Hospital is set to lose out on more than £250,000 of funding because it is missing NHS waiting time targets.

Health chiefs in Dudley admit it 'seems likely' they will not receive as much cash from the Government as hoped due to the performance on waiting times.

The number of patients seen within four hours fell to 82 per cent in July from 90 per cent a month earlier. The nationwide NHS target has been set at 95 per cent.

Efforts to get patients treated on time were hampered by an extra 100 ambulances arriving at the hospital during July compared with the previous month, bosses said.

Hospitals are awarded money from the Sustainability and Transformation Fund based on their success hitting performance and financial targets.

A report to board members at the Dudley Group NHS Trust, which runs Russells Hall, said: "There is a significant risk regarding the performance against the four-hour target. It seems likely that the trust will lose 15 per cent (£0.257 million)."

Diane Wake, chief executive, said: "The trust receives Sustainability and Transformation Fund (STF) money for hitting financial targets and for achieving the four-hour emergency department standard. For the financial year 2017/18, the trust has the opportunity to earn £8,574m from STF.

"If we don't achieve the four-hour target in quarter two (July to September 2017), we will not receive £257,000 of the available STF funds for 2017/18."

Russells Hall has struggled to cope with the number of patients attending A&E over the last year.

Bosses were forced to issue a plea last winter for people only to attend if they needed emergency treatment.

Waiting times had shown signs of improvement over the last few months but slipped back during July.

The number of ambulances arriving have also left staff struggling to cope during certain periods, including in July.

Mineshaft will delay £2m treatment centre

THE opening of a £2.6 million emergency treatment centre at Russells Hall Hospital will be delayed due to problems over a mineshaft.

The new centre, designed to take pressure off A&E, could open up to five weeks later than planned as a capped mineshaft at the site must be registered with the National Coal Board.

The facility was expected to open at the start of November to coincide with the busy winter period but health chiefs could now be waiting until just before Christmas before it is finally up and running.

The discovery of the issue with the mineshaft has thrown a spanner into the works and delayed the opening date of the much-needed centre, possibly until December 11.

The setback was revealed in a report to board members of the Dudley Group NHS Trust, which runs Russells Hall.

Weeks

It said: "We have been notified that the Dudley Emergency Treatment Centre is likely to be delayed up to a maximum of five weeks. The trust's estates team are meeting with the contractors to ascertain if this delay can be reduced.

"The original opening date was to be the November 1, 2017. The best case scenario for the revised timescale is that we can open on November 20, worst case scenario December 11, 2017.

"The reason for the delay is the designation of a capped mineshaft that has to be registered with the National Coal Board prior to the footings of the new build being commenced."

Dudley Group NHS Foundation Trust chief executive Diane Wake said: "The completion of our new Emergency Treatment Centre could be delayed by up to five weeks due to additional groundwork. No mineshafts have been identified that could impact on the build."

Cheers! Artist designs beer label

Artist Warren McCabe-Smith, whose artwork is printed on 77,000 bottles of Woodsetton Pale Ale

AN artist has been given the opportunity to showcase his talent with a design to adorn the front of more than 77,000 bottles of a Dudley brew being sold at supermarkets.

Warren McCabe-Smith, 37, from Quarry Bank, approached the owners of Black Country brewery Holdens, as the beer makers approached their centenary, saying that he would be happy to help them mark the occasion.

He was asked to paint a portrait of the family but at the time he didn't know what his work would be used for. It now takes pride of place on the label of a new ale brought out to mark the 100 year anniversary, called Woodsetton Pale Ale.

The beer will be sold in Aldi stores nationwide, to the delight of Warren, a fine art graduate from the University of Wolverhampton. He said: "As an artist I really have to work hard to get my name out there."

Accident has sparked calls for action on danger road

RESIDENTS fear it will take fatalities before something is done about a notorious stretch of road between Sedgley and Wombourne.

Last week a 24-year-old man was taken to hospital with multiple injuries after a smash between a car and a lorry in Wodehouse Lane, Gospel End.

Jane Kitchen, 53, who has lived in Gospel End for 17 years, said: "I realised something was wrong when I saw the ambulance in the field and I said to my husband 'oh not again'."

"The issue is there needs to be something done to slow the speed of traffic. It's gone on for years, what needs to happen is some sort of speed restriction. It will take several fatalities, until then nothing is going to happen. I think speed cameras are needed."

Victoria Stackhouse, manager of The Firs Care Home, on Wodehouse Lane, said: "I have worked at the home for many years, I used to live on the road as well, and I've seen many accidents over the years and deaths as well."

"The road was widened at one stage about 15 years ago because it was having accident after accident but in my opinion it has got a lot worse."

Staffordshire County Council say plans are in place to monitor the road and to paint double yellow lines in a bid to improve safety.

Councillor Victoria Wilson, of Kinver ward, said: "On Wodehouse Lane, where the Firs Care Home is, we are looking at getting double yellow lines so people can't park on that busy corner. We are in negotiations to get that done."

Fizzogs fly out to the 'Big Oppe'

COMEDY troupe The Fizzogs are swapping the Black Country for the Big Apple as they are to perform in New York's Times Square

The comedy group, best known for their act The Dancing Grannies, have won lots of fans in American after their video of the grannies' dance routine went viral on the internet.

Fizzog Deb Nicholls said: "We are just going to rock up and see how New York reacts to us."

The trio, who regularly perform at events and venues in Dudley, also includes Jacky Fellows and Sue Hawkins.

Pub to become flats

A FORMER pub in Brierley Hill will be turned into flats after the plans were given the go-ahead by Dudley Council.

The Railway Inn, in Fenton Street, Brierley Hill, will be converted into seven apartments after an application by Maxwell Scott was approved.

Club reopens but makes promise on funeral date

CHICAGO'S nightclub in Stourbridge town centre reopened on Friday, almost exactly a month after popular Black Country footballer Ryan Passey was stabbed to death on the premises.

The 24-year-old from Brierley Hill was fatally wounded at the club on August 6.

The venue was shut following a temporary licence suspension in the wake of the attack, but Dudley Council licensing bosses ruled the club could reopen with tightened security and safety checks.

Ryan's family and friends have launched a petition calling for the club to be closed down permanently. More than 3,500 have signed the petition.

A spokesperson for Chicago's confirmed that it would not be open on September 22, the date of Mr Passey's funeral at St James's Church in Wollaston.

Fellow Wolves fans paid tribute to Mr Passey with a minute of applause before the match against Millwall at Molineux on Saturday.

At Birmingham Crown Court last week, Kobe Murray, of The Broadway, Dudley entered a plea of not guilty to one count of murder.

The 19-year-old has been remanded in custody until January 24, when his trial, which is expected to last for two weeks, is due to start.

PM is urged to act on ivory ban

DUDLEY North MP Ian Austin is calling on Prime Minister Theresa May to impose a total ban on the ivory trade in the UK - after a pledge to do so was dropped from the 2017 Conservative manifesto.

If the rate of killing continues as it is, elephants could be extinct in many parts of the wild within 15 years, said the Labour MP.

Mr Austin said: "Clearly something needs to be done to stop the killing of thousands of elephants at the hands of poachers each year.

"It's wrong that the Tories dropped their pledge for a total ban in the UK so I'm backing the campaign by Action for Elephants to put it back on the agenda. I have also called on China to end the illegal ivory trade."

Hundreds smile for Joel's charity at run

Suzy Evans and Owen Richards at the run

HUNDREDS of runners turned out for a celebration remembering the lives of three members of a family who were killed in the Tunisia beach terror attack.

It was on your marks, get set, go at Sandwell Valley Country Park where around 1,000 people got into their running shoes to raise funds for Smile for Joel.

The charity was set up by the family of victims Joel Richards, Adrian Evans and Patrick Evans, who were all from the Black Country.

It was an an emotional day for Suzy Evans, from Wednesbury, who lost her son, brother and father in the 2015 attack, and her son Owen, who survived the atrocity, after so much hard work making the event possible.

Races

Run for Joel featured two competitive races, one 5km and the other 3km, while there was also a fun run for the youngsters. Thousands of pounds were raised for the charity, which supports families who have lost loved ones in tragic circumstances.

The final total is not yet known but the weekend runs followed last year's event, which raised £27,000.

Friends and family rallied round, with one couple, Adam and Trudy Russell, from Wednesbury, even cutting short their honeymoon in Ibiza so they could make it.

Families of other victims, and survivors, also attended the event.

Joel, 19, was a talented football referee. His uncle Adrian, 49, a Sandwell Council worker from Bilston, and grandfather Patrick, 78, died alongside him in the terror attack which killed 30 British holidaymakers.

Motorist who hit people on crossing is jailed

A SPEEDING motorist who mowed two pedestrians, seriously injuring both, has been jailed for two years.

Stuart Knowles, aged 49 and Sharon Homer, 54, were both hurled more than 50ft when struck by the Astra driven by 22-year-old Ahsa Mehmood.

The motorist from Quarry Bank did not stop immediately although he did return soon after to give his details to police at the scene, Wolverhampton Crown Court was told.

Experts estimated from CCTV that Pizza Hut manager Mehmood was doing 50mph in a 30mph zone moments before the collision and was still travelling at between 27 and 34 mph when the Astra hit the pair.

Mr Gareth Walters, prosecuting, explained that the traffic light controlling the crossing was in favour of oncoming traffic when the pedestrians tried to get to the other side of Rowley Regis High Street shortly after midnight on New Year's Eve.

The defendant braked when he saw them but stopped slowing down, thinking he could get past without hitting them. The pair were more than half way across when they saw the speeding Astra and tried to get out of the way.

"They were thrown 16 metres," said the prosecutor. Mr Knowles received multiple fractures of the skull together with injuries to his spine and a broken leg. Miss Homer had a broken pelvis and fractures to a rib and vertebrae.

Mehmood from Coppice Lane, who had not been drinking and was of previous good character, pleaded guilty to causing serious injury by dangerous driving. He is banned from driving for two years on release.

MP thanks medics who saved his life

From left, sepsis practioner Sian Annakin, Dudley South MP Mike Wood, Dr Ron Daniels (chair of the UK Sepsis Trust) and sepsis nurse Ash Evenson at Russells Hall Hospital

DUDLEY South MP Mike Wood has thanked hospital staff who he says saved his life when he was diagnosed with a deadly blood condition.

The Conservative MP was given only a 10 per cent chance of survival when he was rushed into Russells Hall Hospital suffering with sepsis earlier this year. But thanks to the efforts of doctors and nurses from the hospital's dedicated critical care team he managed to pull through.

Now Mr Wood is campaigning to raise awareness of sepsis, which can be fatal if it is not spotted quickly enough. Speaking ahead of World Sepsis Day on Wednesday, Mr Wood said: "Russells Hall is well ahead of the game when it comes to both recognising sepsis and the level of care that is required. I was certainly lucky that I was admitted to this hospital and can only say a big thank you to everyone involved."

Trouble-hit church appeals for funds

A CHURCH in Dudley hit by theft and anti-social behaviour is urging the public to help raise vital funds.

St John's Church in Kates Hill is launching the '177 Regular Givers' scheme, so supporters can donate a set amount to the preservation group every month. It comes as part of the church's 177th anniversary. It was reopened last year after it closed in 2002 over safety issues.

Recent thefts have seen the church close their charity sale room at the site. Louts were also spotted spitting and vomiting by a war plaque.

Washing machine blamed for blaze

A FAMILY fled from their home in Brierley Hill after a fire was sparked by a washing machine.

The blaze started in the garage and spread to the kitchen at the house in Baxter Road at around 5.50am Sunday.

Two adults and two children got out before fire crews arrived and rescued a dog.

Crews from Brierley Hill Fire Station confirmed the fire was caused by a washing machine in the garage of the property. Both the garage and kitchen were damaged.

Derelict eyesore sold for £200k

A DERELICT pub targeted by vandals has been sold at auction for £200,000.

It was auctioned off last Wednesday by agents SDL Bigwood. Planning permission has already been granted for two one-bedroom apartments and five two-bedroom apartments as well as three two-bedroom houses.

Drive to get more men in social work

COUNCIL chiefs in Birmingham have backed a campaign to attract more men into social work.

Currently the child protection workforce is predominantly female, with only 14 per cent of roles taken up by men, whilst more than half of the children in care are boys.

The drive has been launched by social work charity Frontline, backed by Birmingham City Council – with 15.5 per cent of male social workers in children’s services. Councillor Brigid Jones said: “As Ofsted confirmed earlier this year, we are now making steady progress in improving services for children.”

Cavern under zoo has tourist potential

TOURISM bosses are investigating whether to open an attraction at caves underneath Dudley Zoo.

Stores Cavern, created by limestone quarrying from 1750s to 1850s, was visited by Dudley Council chief executive Sarah Norman this week.

The caves feature Silurian limestone, which provide a unique look at the prehistoric seabed below Dudley’s Castle Hill.

IT is rich with 400 million-year-old fossils and was also used as underground storage for ammunition during the war years.

Zoo director Derek Grove said opening the caves to the public could form part of plans for an education centre next to the car park at the Castle Hill attraction.

Existing maintenance buildings would be pulled down and replaced by a new facility next to one of three openings to the cavern.

He said: “We are at the stage where we are exploring what we can do with the caves. The tunnel would require a lot of restoration and we would have to do a study the bats inside.

“But we hope one day it could be opened up for people to explore, adding another attraction to the zoo.

“The bonus about having the education facility outside the zoo boundary is it could remain open out of hours and children would not have to climb the hill to get to it.”

The tunnels tare about 100 metres long, while the cavern itself is about 180m wide and 20m tall. Inside are brick storage buildings.

Mrs Norman said: “These caves have great potential as an education resource and visitor attraction.”

Phone pest is detained for threats to mother

By John Scott

A 19-year-old from Dudley launched a hate campaign against the mother of a younger boy he met playing a game on the internet.

Husam Rodriguez contacted the 12-year-old boy through a video football game, in which players can communicate, in March 2015, Wolverhampton Crown Court was told. The defendant was claiming to be 14, called himself Bailey and offered to give the boy currency used to buy new players in the game if he started to text him.

“Whatever the truth of the relationship it was stopped by the boy’s mother,” said Mr Gareth Walters, prosecuting. But by February this year the boy had met a man called Bailey who gave him gifts, the court heard.

Messages

The mother, who lives in London, told the pest to leave her son alone, but to no avail. She alerted police who arrested Rodriguez on June 2. He was released on bail and phoned her almost immediately, saying: “I know you hate me. What you did today ruined my life.” The next day he contacted her again implying he was in touch with ‘others’ prepared to attack her.

After being arrested again on June 6 and given bail, Rodriguez, of Bridge-water Crescent, started to bombard her with increasingly threatening WhatsApp messages.

Rodriguez, who had no previous convictions, was arrested for the third time on June 30 and this time he was kept in custody. Miss Molly Pinkus, defending, said: “He handed himself in to police and has not tried to evade his responsibility.”

Rodriguez admitted witness intimidation and malicious communications. He will be detained in a Young Offenders Institution for 14 months.

Offers pouring in for arson-hit school

Site Manager Chris Smith, teaching assistant Ian Piotroqicz and deputy head Jodie Colbourne at the scholl’s bird hide

A SPECIAL school’s appeal has been answered with offers of help after a classroom was destroyed in an arson attack.

Pens Meadow School in Dudley made the plea for help to cover significant rebuild costs after the classroom, an outbuilding on the site, was targeted by vandals last month.

Deputy headteacher Jodie Colbourne said: “We are initially fundraising so that we can look at ways to secure our forest school area. We are concerned about ongoing vandalism and this needs to be our first priority.

“We will then be looking to develop the site so that we can continue to offer sessions to all of our pupils, including those with complex medical issues and wheelchair users that need shelter from inclement weather.

“Our bird hide has also been damaged and the site needs clearing of litter and broken glass that has been left by vandals. We have also set up a GoFundMe page, we have got a sponsored walk at the end of the month.”

She said that it had been particularly difficult for the pupils because they had put a lot of work into the forest area project and were upset that some people wanted to destroy their facility.

Charity Friends of Alfie Johnson, which helps disabled children across Dudley, Sandwell and Wolverhampton, has offered a financial donation. NCB Scaffolding Specialists in Stourbridge has also signed up to help, and Brierley Hill Fire Service plan to run a car wash to raise funds. Visit www.gofundme.com/pens-meadow-forest-school

Disgraced ex-councillor on register for sex offenders

A DISGRACED former councillor who took hundreds of indecent images of boys to use in adverts has been spared jail.

Derrick Hemingsley, who was a representative for Wordsley on Dudley Council, took topless photographs of two boys aged under 14. They were used in adverts and websites to promote his car cleaning products business, Pride and Joy, where they attracted ‘inappropriate remarks’.

A court heard last week that Hemingsley paid one of the boys up to £500 for taking part in the photo shoots.

Police recovered 469 ‘category C’ images and 17 videos of the same classification from the 57-year-olds laptop. Category C is the lowest level of child pornography.

Hemingsley, of Penzer Street, Kingswinford, pleaded guilty to two counts of taking indecent photographs of children. His pleas were on the basis he had not considered the images to be indecent when he took them, which was accepted by Judge Amjad Nawaz at Wolverhampton Crown Court.

He sentenced Hemingsley to 10 months in jail, suspended for two years. He must also complete a rehabilitation programme, pay £500 costs and will be on the Sex Offenders Register for 10 years.

The court heard the defendant had been a magistrate, school governor, a church-goer and a prospective parliamentary candidate.

Judge Nawaz, said: “Yours is a spectacular fall from grace.”

Defending, Mr Simon Hunka, said his client’s business interests had been badly affected by his conviction.

After the hearing, Hemingsley, said: “This has been a devastating time for not only me but for my family.”

Roadworks due to end this month

WORK to improve road safety and reduce congestion at an accident black-spot in the Black Country is set to be completed by the end of this month.

The overhaul to the junction of Doulton Road and Dudley Road, in Rowley Regis, began in July.

The project was started after Sandwell Council bosses said the work to see traffic lights installed was needed after a review of accidents on that stretch of highway. A spokesperson confirmed it would be complete by September 30.

Over the summer motorists have experienced long delays during work on the busy route.

Meanwhile, Dudley Council has revealed work on the Dudley Road and Coombs Road junction in Halesowen will not restart until next year.

Broken Or Damaged Windows? Faulty Locks, Handles, Hinges? f t

Road rage driver waved knife at a motorist

A 'HARDWORKING' Romanian immigrant who pulled a blade out from his lunch box before waving it through his car window has been given a suspended sentence.

Knife-wielding Claudiu Popaz grabbed the three-inch blade, used to cut his salami, during the 'road rage' row, Wolverhampton Crown Court heard. The 22-year-old father, of Kenilworth Court, Dudley, who came to the UK from Greece four years ago, claimed he brandished the knife after being threatened by another driver in Quinton.

Sentencing, Recorder Julian Taylor said: "I don't want to send a man to immediate custody who is in a job, is remorseful and has pleaded guilty at the first opportunity. I hope this is an isolated incident. You were in possession of a knife and you shouldn't have been. If you need to cut up your lunch, do it before you leave the house."

Plain-clothed police officers in an unmarked vehicle were observing Popaz after suspecting he was driving while using a mobile in Hagley Road West. Another motorist overtook Popaz's Ford Focus and when the two cars pulled up alongside each other at traffic lights officers spotted the defendant wave the blade through the window.

Popaz was handed an eight-month sentence, suspended for 18 months, ordered to carry out 150 hours unpaid work and pay £360 costs.

A new director for nurses' union

A MEDIC from Birmingham has taken over at the helm of a nurses' union in the West Midlands.

The Royal College of Nursing (RCN) has appointed Mike Adams as its new regional director. He has taken over from Paul Vaughan, who has moved to NHS England to take up a senior nursing position.

Mr Adams, who grew up in Harborne, said: "It's a privilege to hold this post.

"I am very aware of the challenges and stresses that many of our members face in nursing every day and I am totally committed to carrying on the good work that's been done in the West Midlands to support them and champion our profession."

Rector appointed

A NEW rector has joined the Church of England's Gornal and Sedgley team ministry. The Rev Guy Hewlett was licensed by Bishop of Dudley, the Rt Rev Graham Usher, at All Saints Parish Church, Sedgley.

Factory's famous mosaic to be saved

The canal mosaic artwork in Tipton

A LANDMARK former ceramics factory in the Black Country could be given a new lease of life after standing derelict for more than 10 years.

The Roman Mosaic site, on Bloomfield Road, Tipton, has been targeted by arsonists and fly-tippers.

It was put on the market for more than half a million pounds last year and a sale has now been confirmed.

The factory, which is recognised by its notable chimney with 'Roman' written on it, also has a unique tile mosaic of a Black Country canal scene on the corner of the premises.

Chair of Tipton Civic Society, Keith Hodgkins, said: "I have heard that the site has been bought and could be turned into offices, but no plans have been put forward yet.

"It has looked a mess for some time now so to see something done with it will be great.

Initiative

"There is also an initiative by Tipton Community Association to get the mosaics preserved. They have been in contact with the new owners and they have kindly said that they can have it.

The plan is to re-erect it at the Brook Street Community Centre."

Former West Bromwich MP and House of Commons speaker, Baroness Betty Boothroyd, unveiled the canal mosaic artwork 20 years ago.

Meanwhile, an eyesore former steelworks site in Tipton has been put up for sale for more than £1 million.

The Corus warehouse, derelict for more than 10 years, is described as ideal for housing development by Bearwood-based property specialists Royal Estates. The plant closed with the loss of more than 100 jobs in 2003.

Duncan's three England shirts stay in home town

THIS is what remains of footballing great Duncan Edwards' memorabilia collection in the Black Country after the bulk of it was relocated to Old Trafford.

Dozens of items from Edwards' career have been transported to the home of his former team Manchester United after the club bought the collection from his family earlier this year.

It means that just four of Dudley-born Edwards football shirts – including three England shirts and a Brazil shirt – and four international caps will remain on display at the town's archives and local history centre on Tipton Road.

It follows months of talks between Dudley Council and the club, which resulted in a deal being agreed to ensure a small number of items remain in the town with other parts of the collection due to be loaned to the centre throughout the year.

Bosses at the authority have expressed relief that part of the collection will stay in Dudley following concerns that the entire collection would be sent to Manchester.

Legacy

However, the sale has been described as 'a tragedy' by a borough councillor Paul Brothwood, who says youngsters across the region will be deprived of seeing a full chronicle of the legacy of Dudley's greatest footballer.

"Duncan Edwards was a truly inspirational figure, not just in terms of his brilliance with a football but also as a great man," said Mr Brothwood, Dudley Council's UKIP leader. "It is a real tragedy that the majority of the collection appears to have headed out of the town.

"But at least a small number of items will remain so people can still see his legacy in the town of his birth. Obviously there is nothing the council can do to influence a private deal between the Edwards family and Manchester United."

The full collection includes shirts, caps, medals, match programmes and photographs. It had been on loan to Dudley Council for years and was exhibited at the Dudley Museum and Art Gallery in the town centre until its closure.

Councillor Ian Kettle with Duncan Edwards' shirts, memorabilia on show at the archives centre

Councillor Ian Kettle, the council's cabinet member for regeneration, said the authority had negotiated with United to secure the loan of several items, which can be 'refreshed' throughout the year.

The items will be displayed at the archive centre's new Dudley Heroes gallery, which will also feature Netherton leaper Joe Darby's belts and Halesowen wheelchair tennis ace Jordanne Whiley's Wimbledon kit. The gallery will be officially opened by Ms Whaley when the museum opens officially on September 30.

Mr Kettle added: "This collection is extremely important to this borough. It tells the story of not only a local footballing hero, but one of the greatest players this country has ever produced. We will continue celebrating his name for generations to come."

Rubbish system of these bin police

SOME things restore your faith in our public services, while others just leave you tearing your hair out.

On Saturday, I called in at my public library bang on 4pm, just as the doors were being locked. "Sorry, we're closed," said the librarian, which was fair enough. While it seems absurd that libraries now shut in mid afternoon, I knew the opening times, and had left it too late.

However, when I politely asked if I could return my books, she reluctantly relented, and I was out at 4.01pm. Nobody was really inconvenienced, and I went away with a higher opinion of the staff.

Now compare this with the "binspectors", who appear to be making a comeback across the region. Two local councils in the West Midlands recently announced they are employing folk to prod around our dustbins to see what is inside. Some people have reportedly been sent the characteristically pompous letters, in their trademark John Prescott grammar and pseudo-legalistic gobbledegook, threatening residents with fines of up to £2,500 and criminal records should they persist putting their rubbish in the wrong container.

These two stories show a marked contrast between the different attitudes which exist in local government. In the first instance, the librarian recognised that public service meant serving the public, in other words giving the punters what they want.

On the other hand, the "binspectors" - they hate that term by the way - and moreover, their employers, believe their role involves telling us what to do, or "changing attitudes and perceptions".

They are wrong. The council's job is to empty the bins. Not tell us how to use them.

AFTER losing a bet, Birmingham City fan Joe Lombardi agreed to have a picture of Harry Redknapp leaning out of his car window tattooed on his ankle.

I've never really got the appeal of tattoos. If I'm going to allow my body to be used as an art gallery or advertising hoarding, the least I expect is for the exhibitors to pay for the space. Indeed, it could be a nice little earner, selling parts of your body for commercial sponsorship. I'm sure if the price is right, I can be persuaded to have Bill's Pizza or Acme Double glazing etched onto my bum.

But given that Blues are on their third manager in nine months, you can't help but think Joe will regret his decision sooner rather than later.

Wouldn't you just love to see Joe's face if Harry crossed the city to Aston Villa?

New warning of ballistic missiles getting closer

Florence Parly - warning over North Korea and building of ballistic missiles

Kate Middleton - expect lots of coverage as baby number three is on the way

Another good reason to get out of Europe

THE French defence minister, Florence Parly, warns that North Korea may be closer than anyone thought to building ballistic missiles capable of hitting Europe. Another good reason to be leaving.

HOW justice works. On the day this week that local councils unveiled plans to slap £2,500 fines on householders who overload their wheelie bins, the Ministry of Justice revealed that 437 people who admitted crimes including blackmail, kidnap, rape and child abuse have been let off with a caution. Surprised? Nah, me neither.

I SWITCHED on Call You and Yours (Radio 4) to hear a particularly nauseating example of that dreadful modern language we might call social workese. A caller, close to tears, described how her family had been shattered by the sudden death of a little child. The interviewer replied: "It must change the family dynamic." Ye gods and little fishes.

ANOTHER family dynamic is being changed. "We just can't wait to meet baby number three!" gushes the Daily Mail as Kate and William announce another pregnancy. Who might this "we" be? Even those of us who support a constitutional monarchy have had quite enough from the Windsor photo-opportunity factory for one year, thanks. On top of Prince Philip's retirement, Princess Di memories and wall-to-wall coverage of Kate and his girl, endless dissection of Kate's progress will give us all morning sickness.

ACCORDING to the latest British Social Attitudes Survey, for the first time ever more than half of adult Brits claim to follow no faith. Hal-lelujah. Losing our religions may be one of the main benefits of a multicultural society. There was a time when we all believed that kindness and charity flowed from the assortment of gods, prophets, saints and holy men we chose to worship. But in today's Britain we see people helping at disasters and being inspired not by Bronze Age superstitions but by common human decency. It is a sobering moment the first time a religious person sees an atheist putting his or her life on the line for others. To do good in the belief that you will be rewarded in heaven is fine. But doing good for its own sake, with no expectation of harps, angels and eternity, has got to be better. Religion divides, humanity unites.

AND off to the optician for a new treatment. This involves a tiny vibrator which is run along the rims of your eyelids, tickling your lashes and scattering the accumulated crud and eye-mites of many years. Ordeal by eyelid-tickler feels exactly as it sounds and if you don't squirm like a serpent and laugh like a drain throughout, then your giggle buttons probably need adjusting. It reminded me of that unfortunate incident at the dentist's as a small boy (when I was a small boy, that is, not the dentist). He was running the high-pressure water jet around my molars when he suddenly touched one end of a nerve which ran deep into the body. I instantly wet myself. I don't recall anybody laughing.

FROM time to time things go terribly wrong.

An airliner crashes. A block of flats goes up in flames. Girls are sexually abused by organised gangs. And then, after the initial shock, it is revealed that everyone knew there was a problem all along but everyone chose to look the other way. It's only after the event that we raise our hands in horror and demand to know why, when all was known, nothing was done. And if you want to see a new national scandal brewing, look no further than Gypsy Kids: Our Secret World (C5) where we meet children of nine and 13 who have never been to school and whose parents, being semi-literate, cannot possibly educate them.

THE problems caused by travellers are usually reported in terms of caravan invasions, intimidation, crime and the filth left behind. But this series is a reminder that parts of the Traveller community are not only troublesome but deeply troubled.

If you take your kids out of school for a few days in term time, the education authorities may well impose a steep fine or take you to court. Yet the non-attendance at school by thousands of traveller children is simply ignored. All politicians talk about the importance of education, freedom and the right to choose a better future. But on this issue, with generation after generation trapped in a no-hope web of illiteracy, those same politicians choose to look the other way and ignore child-neglect on a massive scale. Sometimes politicians even romanticise it. Jeremy Corbyn talks proudly of defending "the right to a nomadic way of life." What about the right of these traveller kids to choose another sort of life?

TALKING POINT

Loyalty to fat cats is costing our grannies

HOW would you feel if you heard that someone had ripped off your granny for £500? Then you found out that they had been dipping into her finances on an annual basis.

We are not talking about an opportunistic purse thief or even some doorstep con artist. This is happening perfectly legally... and it's a disgrace.

The culprits? The insurance industry. The fat cats who run this multi-billion pound industry know full well that many of their elderly loyal customers don't know their iPad from their elbow.

Apologies to the savvy silver surfers, but in an ageing society where many live into their 80s, 90s or even long enough to get a letter from the Queen, there are thousands of elderly people who never go online.

They don't own a computer and probably don't want to. It is difficult to tap away at a keyboard with arthritic fingers or peer at a screen when your eyesight is not what it was.

Many of these people belong to a generation when it was considered shameful to owe money or to even be late paying a bill. How times change.

But this means that they often fall foul of the automatic renewal, when the insurance company offers you another year of 'the same great cover' without any bother. Avoiding the 'bother' can prove costly, especially as loyalty appears to be a one-way street when it comes to the insurers.

Year on year those buildings and contents premiums increase. A person who set up a direct debit years ago could easily be paying £500 over the average deal available elsewhere.

Back in 2013, The Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) admitted automatic renewal leads to customers being treated unfairly. But still it goes on.

New rules introduced this year have forced insurers to tell buyers at the renewal stage what their premium was the year before. The FCA say that measure alone should save consumers more than £100m, by alerting them to the scale of the premium increase.

But this will not alert everyone to how much less they could be paying for the same cover elsewhere.

The elderly are probably the worst hit group but any loyal customer who doesn't make price comparisons can be preyed on in this way. It is time our MPs took on the insurance industry to end this cynical exploitation.

Check your policy, particularly if you pay by direct debit and, if you have elderly relatives or friends, check their policy too.

Decent people are no longer valued

AFTER having chats with friends and neighbours, we have reached the conclusion that decent honest people are no longer valued in this country.

Decisions are being made by the new rich on things which no one really wants except the powerful lobby. For example, HS2.

Who is this being built for? Not the ordinary folk who won't be able to afford to travel on it anyway; disrupting many and forcing people to move from homes they may have worked hard for all their lives; ruination of flora and fauna.

None of these projects is ever delivered on time, or on budget.

Tower blocks being designed and built with only one staircase in case of emergency, what good is this?

Criminals getting the soft treatment as a result of their crimes. For example, driving while disqualified with no insurance and killing an innocent person with a vehicle. Surely this should be murder as a motor vehicle in the wrong hands is a lethal weapon? A few years of disqualification is just laughable, as most of these people will no doubt do the same thing again because of the leniency given them. Is it not also about time that cyclists should be insured as a matter of course?

As a disabled person, my scooters are both insured.

I could go on but I am sure that you get my drift.

Speed limit is in place for a reason

IS it me getting older or do we really have a problem with speeding motorists on our local roads?

My trips around the area seem to get more hair-raising every day, especially the Dudley Southern Bypass, which has a maximum speed of 40mph. Cars pass me all the time at what seems more like 60mph and undertaking is commonplace especially during the evening rush hour.

If I see this every day, why do the police not act? Let's not wait for a serious accident before action is taken, all it needs is mobile cameras along the route.

But it is not just that road, everywhere speed limits are ignored except for the places where there are static cameras. Speed limits are there for a reason, and are the maximum speed given ideal conditions. Any fool can push their right foot down but there is nothing clever about going fast. Safety is the key.

Start to cut the debt with wages at BBC

WE are the fifth richest country in the world they say – but we owe £1.73 trillion. Now my major concern is the payments to BBC staff. The salaries recently highlighted are ridiculous.

The highest paid woman, who I believe is the daughter of a former media mogul, makes you wonder why all these highly-paid women have complained about equal pay with men – I trust they want men's pay to be reduced to the women's. The reason they, all of them, are paid so extravagantly is because the BBC gets so much public money. This money is given to them by a tax on a television licence which the Chancellor of the Exchequer could divert to the NHS and allow the BBC a more reasonable amount. There are plenty more TV stations so viewers won't go short.

Anything to say on HS2 Gavin?

I DON'T suppose I am alone in wondering what planet South Staffordshire MP Gavin Williamson is on.

First he pats himself on the back for the possible relocation of D X Freight from Essington, loss of jobs and revenue to the area.

What is it about Essington? Only claim to fame – fruit farm and a boot sale.

Now he wades in with his support against further industrial development to create 8,500 jobs plus by 'Four Ashes Ltd' a proposal to create a rail/road freight hub – much-needed.

I do so hope Four Ashes are successful led by Peter Frost. Oh, Peter, as a former lorry driver, please don't forget a good hard surface LGV park and good food and ancillary services for drivers.

Memo to Mr Williamson – what about the carnage caused by HS2, or have you been told to keep quiet about this white elephant?

Mixed feelings as repairs drag on after landslide

NO end is yet in sight for work on a rural road near Dudley after a landslide. Repair work has been taking place in Hinksford Lane near Swindon in South Staffordshire since December.

Surveying work is needed to find the source of water which has led to cracks in the road. The 'complex' nature of the work has meant highways bosses still do not know when the work will be complete. The project has forced a permanent lane closure with traffic lights.

However, while some motorists have been annoyed at the disruption to their route, villagers have been delighted with the impact it has had on the levels of traffic.

Community leaders in Swindon claim the route has long been used as a rat-run for motorists avoiding the busy Wolverhampton Road.

Helen Fisher, cabinet support member for highways and transport at Staffordshire County Council said: "Whilst traffic lights have been in operation for safety reasons, we have also had to close the road for some short periods of time for ground investigations to take place.

"Our highways engineers are carrying out a number of surveys and once an appropriate solution is identified, the work will be scheduled. This has been a complex issue due to the nature of the landslide and we would hope to get the work completed as soon as possible."

Swindon Parish Council chairman Councillor Richard Painter said the three-day closure of the road had been a bonus for the village. He added: "When the road was closed the villagers did comment on the lack of through-traffic and the fact it improved the quality of life."

It's silent but sinister – burglar's best trick

"IT is quick, easy and quiet," – It sounds like an advert promoting the local library but actually the truth is far more sinister.

Unfortunately that is West Midlands Police's description for 'lock snapping' which has emerged as a prominent form of burglary in the Black Country this year.

Armed with just a pair of pliers and a screwdriver intruders can now force their way into people's homes in less than a minute.

And what has the force 'worried' is that unlike other crude methods of entry, this does not involve smashing glass or breaking down doors. It can be carried out almost completely silently. As a result thieves are targeting more homes at night – while people are still in bed.

Detective Sergeant Leighton Shingles, part of the force's High Harm team, said: "It has definitely become a method of entry we are seeing more often. Ever since January we are noticing it regularly. The worrying thing is that they are being committed while people are in the house. It takes a matter of minutes."

So what exactly is lock snapping? The first bit of bad news is that the ideal targets are Euro profile cylinder locks, which are fitted to several million uPVC doors throughout the country.

It works by removing the plastic covering and gripping the protruding lock mechanism – where you put the key – with some sort of tool.

A set of pliers will do but career burglars may opt for an aptly named 'snapper bar' which can be picked up from most locksmith merchants for around £50 or less. At the risk of this becoming a 'how to' guide, aspiring burglars will have to figure the final part out themselves. However, it would seem scores of desperate criminals have already cottoned on in the Black Country with West Midlands Police now declaring lock snapping is the 'method of choice' for forcing entry into homes.

No glass smashing or breaking down doors

Warnings

The force has issued multiple warnings to residents this year, particularly via its fledgling WMNow alert service, that this is the way homes are being broken in to in 2017.

In March houses on Hodges Drive and Darby's Hill Road in Tividale were targeted and properties in Brickhouse Lane and Woolpack Close in the West Bromwich area were also raided.

More recently Milking Bank in Dudley and parts of Halesowen have seen similar incidents.

Walsall residents have been hit by several 'lock snap' break-ins in the last two months with houses in Chestnut Close in Streety, The Berkshire in Turnberry, and Tetley Avenue, just north of Walsall Arboretum, all proving vulnerable. On the back of the latter incident, Kevin Pitt, police, engagement and consultation officer in Walsall, said: "Lock snapping is becoming burglars' entry method of choice as it is quick, easy and quiet."

Laptops, jewellery and cash have been the obvious targets. But car keys have become the ultimate prize with the rear patio doors to a home now seen as a gateway to driving off in a £30,000-plus high performance vehicle.

But there are counter measures have since been developed. There are several 'anti-snap' locks on the market which can be picked up for less than £20. A cheaper option for patio doors comes in the form of a Patlock, which fits around the door handles. And even cheaper still are 'sash jammers' which prevent windows and doors from opening.

They are available for less than £10 each and recommended by police.

DS Shingles added: "We would urge people to check things like the security of their side gates, or if they have security lights and CCTV make sure they are working."

West Midlands Police has had to deal with a minimum of 2,000 burglaries a month across the region since last September. Home security is available at www.securebydesign.com

Sad day in Woodsetton as pub reduced to rubble

Summer's over – Woodsetton's Councillor Dean Perks had hoped the pub could continue to serve the community

JUST a pile of a rubble remains where the once popular Summerhouse Pub stood.

Despite a fierce campaign to save it from the bulldozers the pub has been demolished to make way for a Co-op convenience store.

Dudley Council objected to the demolition of the Summerhouse Pub in Woodsetton, but a planning inspectorate overturned its decision and a mini-supermarket is set to replace it on Sedgley Road. Piles of rubble lie where the pub stood for more than a century.

Now the Maypole Inn in Hasbury is next to be knocked down after developers won permission.

Jacqui Edwards, of Dudley and South Staffs branch of the Campaign for Real Ale, who lives in Woodsetton, said: "It is a shame, it was a nice little old boozer."

Campaigns were launched in a bid to save both pubs. The Maypole Inn was even listed as an 'asset of community value' to try and stave off the threat from developers.

Site owners NewRiver REIT said some residents welcomed the new £1 million store, which is creating 20 jobs.

Pudsey can bank on school support across the borough

BBC Children in Need is back this year and schools in Dudley are all being urged to take part. The event will climax with the BBC Children in Need appeal TV night on November 17.

On the day, school pupils from across the Black Country and beyond will take part The Big Spotacular, raising money for disadvantaged children and young people in the UK.

Last year's campaign saw Lickhill Primary School in Stourport raise £37,736 in support of the charity.

To get started, schools and nurseries are invited to register for the 2017 Big Spotacular fundraising kits. Lloyds Bank is helping run this year's event.

But time is running out to apply for a fundraising pack with schools urged to register before tomorrow (Friday) at bbcchildreninneed.co.uk/schools website.

Tanya Rabin, BBC Children in Need partnership lead at Lloyds Banking Group, said: "We are thrilled at how much schools in Dudley have raised for BBC Children in Need through the Big Lloyds Bank Spotacular and we hope their success so far will encourage otherschools to join in with The Big Spotacular."

"The partnership has played an important part of the Group's Helping Britain Prosper Plan, helping tackle disadvantage and improving young people's lives for the better."

Difference

Jonathan Rigby, commercial director of BBC Children in Need, said: "This year we're urging all the nurseries and schools in Dudley and across the rest of the UK to join The Big Spotacular and go spotty to help raise money for BBC Children in Need."

"The money raised really will make a huge difference to children and young people up and down the UK who are facing disadvantage."

"So, whether it's hosting a spotty picnic or taking part in a sponsored footy match, get your hands on a fundraising pack and get involved."

The festival is between 11am and 7pm in Central Square. Find out more at www.brindleyplace.com website.

Cupid sells for three times the estimate

Will Farmer with the marble sculpture that fetched £91,000 at Stourbridge

AN auction of the contents of a country house near Stourbridge raised hundreds of thousands of pounds.

The items were put up for sale by the owners of Wordsley Manor and formed the bulk of 690 lots that went under the hammer at Stourbridge auctioneers Fieldings on Saturday, drawing bids from America, Japan, Australia and Russia.

A 19th-century carved marble sculpture of Cupid taming the lion by Italian sculptor Emanuele Caroni fetched the highest price when it was bought for £91,000 by a UK-based specialist dealer. That was more than three times the estimate.

Will Farmer, a Fieldings director and expert on TV's Antiques Roadshow, said: "I expected it to perform well and was very pleased, but not surprised, by the final price."

Among other big ticket items was a 19th-century French marble bust, Marguerite, that fetched £8,600.

A painting by 19th century British artist Alfred Pollentine of a scene in Venice sold for £4,000.

The auction was very well attended but a lot of the bidding was done via the internet. The items that went under the hammer ranged from ceramics, glass and jewellery to paintings, prints, furniture and collectables.

Mr Farmer added: "We did not sell absolutely everything but there were only a smattering of odds and ends that were not sold."

Lifecentral church open new building

THE opening of a newly-refurbished auditorium at a Black Country church has been hailed as a part of its future 'legacy'.

Lifecentral Church, formerly known as The Zion Christian Centre, has been based in Halesowen for 40 years. In 2015 half of the building was extensively damaged by a devastating fire.

Now a new 400-seater auditorium with offices and toilets has been built at the site in Little Cornbow and will officially on Sunday.

Since the early 1980s the church has been in the centre of the town, known for carrying its youth work and its range of community activities.

Pastor Leon Evans said: "After 12 years of exploring many options - and a major fire just over two years ago - we are excited to be opening a new multi-purpose 400-seat auditorium for the church and wider community."

Last Easter the Zion Christian Centre, as it was previously known, changed its name to Lifecentral Church. It also was launched in Hagley, where - apart from September 17 - meetings are held at 4.30pm every Sunday at Haybridge High School and Sixth Form, in Brake Lane.

The opening of the building in Little Cornbow will also see a dedication service on Sunday at 9.30am and 11.30am in the new auditorium.

Best of veg at annual horticultural show

ROWLEY Regis Horticultural Society will be holding their annual vegetable and flower show on Saturday.

It is at the Rowley and Blackheath Labour Club in Hawes Lane from 6pm and is free admission.

Prizes will be presented by Halesowen and Rowley Regis MP James Morris. Vegetables and cakes will be sold from 7.15pm.

Firm aim to clean up on driverless sweeper

A NEW driverless electric road sweeper is being developed by a firm in Dudley.

Westfield Autonomous Vehicles, part of Westfield Technology Group – including Westfield Sportscars – at Gibbons Industrial Park, Kingswinford, is behind the project.

The firm is working with Johnston Sweepers and Fusion Processing to make the UK's first fully autonomous pure electric road sweeper.

Meanwhile, it is also working to create a twin drive all-electric jet ski with Potenza Technology.

Both projects are being funded by the Niche Vehicle Network.

Westfield chief executive Julian Turner said: "A fully autonomous road sweeper could revolutionise town centre sweeping, improving the environment for residents and businesses. This is an exciting opportunity to develop the technology for use at airports and on roadwork sites."

On the jet ski, the two businesses aim to improve hydrodynamic efficiency and produce a vehicle that has enhanced safety, lower emissions and decreased noise pollution.

Electric vehicle pioneer Westfield LAO recently agreed a £30 million supply deal with South Korea for autonomous electric pod vehicles.

Survivor didn't know her friend was dead

University student Rebecca McManus was a promising poet

THE friend of a woman who was killed by a speeding driver on Hagley Road West has spoken of her struggle to cope in an online blog.

Rebecca McManus, 21, of Oldbury, was killed in May 2014 by Sukvinder Mannan from Halesowen, who was racing another driver at 100mph when he smashed into a bus stop where former Stourbridge student Rebecca and friend Harriet Barnsley, 18, were waiting. Mannan was jailed.

Harriet was seriously injured in the incident and spent three months in a coma. In her blog, titled 'This Too Shall Pass', she has written of her efforts to recover.

She reveals that said she was not informed of her childhood friend Rebecca's death for weeks after regaining consciousness, writing: "I had a feeling that something was wrong, because she didn't visit me during the three months I spent in hospital."

Realisation

"When my parents eventually told me, I didn't really understand. I don't remember any point at which the news sank in. It was more of a gradual realisation, which I think made it easier to handle."

Harriet, from Birmingham has tried her best to remain upbeat. She wrote: "I don't sit there and moan about how unfair it is. Very simply, because I lived to tell the tale."

Rebecca's father Gerard McManus launched a campaign calling for drivers convicted of causing death by dangerous driving to be banned for life.

Rebecca had studied for her A-levels at King Edward VI College in Stourbridge and had been nearing the end of her three-year English Literature with Creative Writing course at the University of East Anglia when she was killed.

Mersey nurses bid

A BLACK Country hospital team has visited Liverpool in a bid to recruit more nurses.

The RCN nursing recruitment event took place on Merseyside last week.

Sandwell and West Birmingham Hospitals NHS Trust, which runs City, Sandwell and Rowley Regis Hospitals, as well as Leasowes Intermediate Care Centre, was on the lookout to recruit qualified nurses.

Paul Hooton, deputy chief nurse said: "We know that the Black Country is a great place for all to live and work. By going to Liverpool this year, we hope to attract more talent to come to this wonderful place and help us improve our patient experience even more."

Shell out plea by councillor for memorial at road junction

A FUNDRAISING campaign to bring an artillery shell back as an Halesowen landmark has been relaunched.

Campaigners are appealing for donations to get a decorated artillery shell installed on Shell Corner once again, after one stood there after the First World War.

Halesowen ward councillor Stuart Henley said the shell would also be a memorial for remembrance of those who died.

A First World War shell stood in the area from 1924 to 1937 – how Shell Corner got its name – but it disappeared following changes to road layouts. Now Councillor Henley has relaunched a fundraising campaign as part of the project, which would see a planter installed to hold the shell. He launched the campaign last year and managed to raise £340, but that is way off the £8,000 needed.

He was given a new artillery shell to be put on display by a bomb squad in Essex around 18 months ago. Students from Halesowen College have Poppy Day inspired art work onto it. To donate, visit www.justgiving.com/crowdfunding/returnoftheshell

It's a girl! Lemur's gender discovered

A change in fur colour has revealed a rare black lemur baby – the first to be born at Dudley Zoo – is a girl.

She was born to first-time mother Barbara and father Bryan on May 15 and has been named Kimmy by keepers.

Despite the species name, only the males are black in colour, as the females turn brown a few weeks after birth. She is the zoo's first baby black lemur in more than a decade.

Dudley Zoo is particularly delighted as it plays a key role in the conservation battle of its vulnerable species, and is the European Endangered Species Programme studbook holder for the entire European captive population.

Muddy good idea for outdoor play

Halesowen couple Becky and Dave Roberts with one of their Puddy Muddles Mud Kitchens, available online

A COUPLE from Halesowen making their own ‘mud kitchens’ have been flooded with orders from across the UK just weeks after launching a new venture aiming to get more children playing outdoors.

Puddy Muddles Mud Kitchens is the brainchild of Becky and Dave Roberts, selling their own hand-crafted outdoor play stations made from reclaimed pallets.

Puddy Muddles started when Dave, who works in gym equipment sales, built a mud kitchen for their daughter from spare pallets in their Halesowen garden.

After catching the eye of friends and family on social media, the couple started taking commissions for the sets – which come with kitchen utensils and a mixing bowl for messy garden play– and have been inundated with orders.

Charity hit hard by cuts

A CHARITY that had its funding cut is now having to sell off four minibuses to keep operations running after leaving its base of 20 years.

Age Concern chose to leave the Mary Stevens Day Centre in Stourbridge after all of its service level agreement funding from Dudley Council was removed in April.

In a bid to raise enough cash to keep running, the charity has made eight staff cuts and put the minibuses up for sale, after losing more than £21,000 a year. The minibuses were used to transport elderly service users to and from the centre and for day trips.

Chief Officer Dionne Legge, aged 45, said “We have been in this building for 20-plus years, it was like a second home. It’s stopped us being able to offer a day care service in Stourbridge. It’s quite sad because I believe we’re all doing such good work.

“Over the years the council have been very supportive and very kind. I don’t think they have had much fun in telling us all we have lost our funding, but unfortunately there’s repercussions.

“There were so many people out there being helped at a reasonable cost and now, unfortunately, we’re having to skin ourselves back to the bone. Who’s going to look after these people?”

Many of the 70 members have found the Age Concern-operated Green Lane day centre in Halesowen too far to reach, and their Elton Centre in Stourbridge is not suitable as a day care venue.

White House Cancer Support, also affected by the cuts, have been forced to shelve expansion plans as a result.

Autumn fun is planned by the National Trust

THE National Trust has announced a series of events taking place in the West Midlands this autumn.

Orchard Day will be celebrated at Dudmaston Hall, near Bridgnorth, on October 15 with lots of apple produce available.

Between October 21 and October 31 Wightwick Manor and Gardens, Wolverhampton, will host Family Halloween Half Term Fun with children invited to don their most frightening fancy dress and take part in an outdoor pumpkin trail.

At Kinver Edge on October 23 there will be apple-pressing and hands-on crafts at the Trust's Rock Houses. On October 24 and 26 the same site will host lantern-making sessions before a procession of lights and pumpkins in the woods at Kinver Edge.

There will be a Pumpkin Festival at Moseley Old Hall from October 23 to October 29 where people can carve pumpkins and take the insides home.

A spokesperson for the National Trust, said: "Autumn is the perfect time to get outside with the family and create unforgettable moments."

"With all kinds of events from fancy dress to pumpkin-carving to lantern-making, it'll be impossible for the kids to get bored this autumn half-term."

Sir Simon coming back to Birmingham

INTERNATIONALLY-ACCLAIMED conductor Sir Simon Rattle is to return to Birmingham, the city where he made his name with the City of Birmingham Symphony Orchestra in the 1980s and 90s.

The 62-year-old has been principal conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic since 2002 and is becoming musical director of the London Symphony Orchestra (LSO) this month.

He brings the LSO to Symphony Hall for Mahler's Ninth Symphony on May 1. See www.thsh.co.uk website.

Building on the past at open days

HISTORIC buildings in the Black Country gave visitors a unique insight into the past at a series of open days over the weekend.

Sites such as the Black Country Living Museum, Haden Hill Museum and Dudley Coroner's Court took part in Heritage Open Days, a nationwide effort to celebrate the history and culture behind some of the area's oldest buildings.

At the Black Country Living Museum on Tipton Road, Dudley, curators showed some of the sites of hidden treasures, offering a chance to find out the stories that lie behind some lesser-known pieces of the 80,000 objects stored at the museum.

At Haden Hill Museum on Halesowen Road, Cradley Heath, an afternoon of live jazz was organised, where Union Jack flags flew proudly, as the venue itself was opened up for people to see in all its glory.

Guests were given a chance to unlock and discover some of the secrets of the attic and store rooms at the Victorian gentleman's residence.

At Moseley Old Hall, near Wolverhampton, visitors were thrown straight into the middle of an historic adventure from the building's past. For just 70 hours in 1651 Moseley Old Hall protected the future King of England, Charles Stuart, from discovery by Parliament soldiers during the civil war. Fearing for his life, the future King Charles II hid, helped by a family with Royalist sympathies after his army was defeated at the Battle of Worcester.

Costumed characters brought the story to life over the weekend, with visitors getting in on the action, too.

A rare opportunity for people in Dudley was the chance to see inside the Grade II listed Coroner's Court, in St James's Road, Dudley.

It was designed by Harvey and Wicks and built between 1924 and 1928 as part of a group of civic buildings which also includes the Town Hall and the Memorial Tower. The courtroom has remained largely unchanged and retains its original fittings and furnishings.

In Walsall, people had a chance to step back into the past at the Locksmith's House on New Road, Willenhall, or visit the tower at St Matthew's Church in Walsall.

Nationally, Heritage Open Days involves 5,000 events.

Tata Steel company unveils £2m offshore investment

TATA Steel has announced a near £2 million investment programme to build a new generation of offshore products. The company said the move emphasises its commitment to supporting North Sea oil and gas production.

The investment will be made in its Hartlepool and Port Talbot plants. It follows major investment at its major Black Country operation, the Steelpark at Wednesfield, which is the hub of Tata Steel's processing and distribution operations.

Air raids on Black Country is history topic

A SECOND World War history talk focusing on enemy action in the Black Country will be taking place at the end of the month.

The next Black Country Society lecture will be held on September 27 at The Portal, the Dudley Canal Trust HQ on Birmingham New Road at 7.30pm.

Peter Kennedy will be talking about air raids that took place over the Black Country in the Second World War.

The lecturer has made a study of the topic and will look at the frequency, the targets and the impact of the raids during a critical time in the war. Admission is £2 and non members are welcome to attend.

Stourbridge Family History Group has a Family History Group Open Research Evening on Tuesday at St Peter's Centre, Pedmore Lane, Pedmore, from 7pm. Advice will be given on researching family history.

Earlier this year it unveiled a £4 million investment into building a new robot welding line at Wednesfield which will produce two million car parts a year.

The site employs around 525 people, with more working at Tata Steel sites in Walsall and Brierley Hill. Tata Steel has sold off a string of sites in recent years but still employs around 8,500 people around the UK.

Pensions

The company also recently sealed a major pensions deal with unions and the trustees of the British Steel Pension Scheme, which has around 125,000 members, in return for agreements on job security and a £1bn investment plan.

The latest investment project at its Hartlepool steel mill will enable the company to produce a new generation of higher strength offshore construction pipes.

Barry Rust, energy and sustainability manager at Tata Steel, said: "These important investments demonstrate Tata Steel's continued commitment to health and safety and improving and increasing our product range to the North Sea and the oil and gas industry around the world, to help it meet ever-increasing challenges."

Nick is the champion black pud thrower

THE West Midlands has a new world champion – in the sport of black pudding throwing.

Nick Pennell, 45, from Wombourne, has visited the market town of Ramsbottom, near Bury in Lancashire, for the last four years to compete in the official World Black Pudding Throwing Championship.

Having come close to taking home the crown of best thrower, Nick took his efforts to a new level this year and beat competitors from all over the world to claim the top prize.

The sport involves competitors standing 20 feet away from a 20ft high plinth with 12 Yorkshire puddings placed at the top. To win, they must knock down as many Yorkshire puddings as possible by throwing a six and a half ounce black pudding that has been wrapped in tights.

As the day neared its close, four competitors were tied on three, before Nick stepped up to the plate and took five down.

The IT worker said of his success: "I just made sure my arm was nice and loose ready for my throw."

"Me and my friends come down every year because it is a great day out and it is a real English eccentric activity," he said. "Where else could you get away with standing in the street throwing black puddings at Yorkshire puddings? I celebrated with a few pints with the lads and I can say that I will 100 per cent be back to defend my crown next year."

Girl, aged 4, was attacked in a church

A TEENAGER who carried out a sex attack on a four-year-old girl inside a church has not been given a jail term.

Judge Nawaz told the teenage boy, who cannot be named for legal reasons, that if he had been an adult he could have received a life sentence.

The 17-year-old was looking after the child when the attack took place, Wolverhampton Crown Court was told. The victim of the assault at a church in Cradley Heath has been left 'scared and extremely upset', the court heard.

Miss Raj Poona, prosecuting, said the offence came to light when the victim told her mother what had happened and the teenager was arrested.

Mr John Dove, defending, said the attack was a 'moment of madness' from the teenager. He said probation reports on the teenager concluded he posed a low risk of re-offending.

Sentencing the teenager, Judge Amjad Nawaz said he needed to be given support and guidance to ensure he would not offend again.

The judge said the girl had been left in his care by her parents and what he did had severely affected her life.

He admitted assaulting a girl aged under 13 and was given a two-year youth rehabilitation order. He will be under supervision for two years and registered as a sex offender for 30 months.

Simple steps homeowners can take now to protect their assets.

Head of April King Legal Paul King explains why some homeowners are doing too little, too late to protect their hard-earned assets.

Care Cost Fees

"A lot of people are still unaware that if they need care in later life, their assets will be means-tested by the Local Authority to help pay for these services."

"The Local Authority will look to use the assets of a person until they get down to a lower limit of £14,250, when the Local Authority will take over the fees."

"For instance, my own grandmother sadly passed away recently at the age of 92. My grandfather had died many years earlier and left everything to her."

"When she needed care in the last six years of her life, because my grandfather had left everything to her, the house and all the estate was counted in the Local Authority's means test."

"Our clients tell us, 'We've worked hard all our lives, why should the Local Authority get it all?'"

"Just as she died, she had gone down to that lower limit of £14,250 and that's all her children inherited."

"There are many myths about the steps people can take to protect their assets from being used like this."

"The main one is that a parent should simply sign their house over to the children now, so it won't be taken into consideration for means testing. That's just not true."

"Local Authorities will actually look to see if you've 'deliberately deprived' yourself of an asset by giving property away, going back over any period in time."

"Sometimes people think that if the gift is made seven years prior then the house is safe. This is not so as the seven-year rule only applies to Inheritance Tax and not Local Authority care."

"The solution is for couples to simply not leave everything to each other in the first place."

"What my grandfather could have done is leave his half of the house in trust to his children, stating that they couldn't have it while his wife, my grandmother, was still alive. We call these Property Trust Wills."

"If my grandfather had left his half of the house in trust to the children then when my grandmother subsequently received care in her later life she would only have been means tested on her own half of the house, but my grandfather's half would have been safe."

"Why should he have to contribute his half when he didn't receive any care?"

"The important factor is that couples need to act in advance. Once one party dies or loses mental capacity, through a stroke for example, then they are no longer in a position to do this legitimate and straightforward type of planning."

"It is therefore important for couples to act now even if they may not foresee care fees being an issue."

Paul goes on to explain that most clients he sees are surprised to learn remarriage usually cancels a Will and makes the spouse next in line to inherit, ahead of their own children! Protecting your half of the house in this way, he suggests, ensures that your children ultimately inherit when the survivor dies.

"Had my grandmother remarried after the death of my grandfather the whole estate could have passed sideways out of the family," says Paul.

Lasting Power of Attorney

Paul explains how people often get confused thinking that, because they have made a Will, their executors can also deal with assets if there is illness, stroke or some other form of incapacity while they are still alive.

"Everyone should actually have two documents – a Will that deals with their estate on death, and a Lasting Power of Attorney that deals with their estate during their lifetime," he says.

"There are two types of Lasting Power of Attorney – one deals with finance, the other deals with health and welfare."

"In many ways it's similar to a passport; a document that's registered now and one which can be physically handed to the attorneys should the need arise."

"It allows the attorneys, perhaps the children, to deal with the banks and pension companies etc should their parent become incapacitated, but also to deal with matters such as where the parent should be living and how they should receive care."

"Your attorneys, again perhaps your children, must legally act in your best interests at all times."

"You can choose a number of attorneys to act, either jointly or independently, and April King advises on the various options available."

"Couples are often surprised to discover that even joint bank accounts can be frozen until the bank sees sight of a Lasting Power of Attorney document."

"Having a Lasting Power of Attorney removes the burden on children should ill health happen further down the line."

"It helps a family deal with bank accounts and so on during a parent's lifetime and ceases on death."

"Crucially, you have to complete a Lasting Power of Attorney while you are still in good mental health."

"If someone becomes ill through say, a stroke or dementia, this option is lost and the family would have to apply for a Deputyship Order from the Court of Protection – a drawn out and expensive process."

"It is therefore a good idea for clients to plan ahead and remove any future burden from the family."

"Once again, all adults should be thinking of this, particularly when there are children or a business involved."

"It's not just something to think about when you get older, that's the challenge for us."

"People think, 'I'm not ill, why do I need to make a Power of Attorney?' But they're missing the point. This is a document that has to be done in advance."

Paul King, Head of April King Legal

"The Lasting Power of Attorney remains in place until you die unless you want to cancel it."

"Once it's registered, you don't have to worry if you then develop some debilitating illness. A burden has been removed from the family at an already difficult time."

Bloodline Trust Wills

The majority of April King's clients have already made standard 'Mirror Wills' with other firms before approaching the Firm. A Mirror Will is when a couple leave everything to each other on the first death, then to the children when the second partner dies. But modern family life means these type of Wills leave a lot to chance.

Explains Paul: "If I have a Mirror Will leaving everything to my wife and she remarries or goes into care after my death then either the new husband or the Local Authority are likely to inherit most, if not all, of my estate ahead of my children."

"Even if my children are named in my Mirror Will, it is by no means certain that they will inherit anything."

"Once again, this is because a remarriage would cancel the Will my wife had previously made with me and make the new husband next-of-kin."

"This often comes as a big shock to my clients who had perhaps thought that all was in order and that the family bloodline would one day inherit."

"The same is true for thinking that their children and/or grandchildren will one day benefit under a Mirror Will."

"If any of your children should die leaving everything to their husband or wife and that son-in-law or daughter-in-law should then remarry, then your grandchildren would be the ones to lose out under the line of inheritance."

"Worse still, someone else's grandchildren would be in line to receive the benefit of all your years of hard work."

"I've experienced this in my own family and I'm sure most people have had similar experiences or heard of someone who has."

"Bloodline Trust Wills give greater protection to your children."

"These type of Wills not only give your children complete control and access to the inheritance they receive from you, they also grant added protection from the twists and turns of modern family life."

"The wording in these Wills states that any money left over on their demise must pass to any children born of them – your grandchildren."

18 JLR sales down as new car trade slows

Dudley Chronicle Thursday, September 14, 2017

SALES at Midlands-based Jaguar Land Rover declined as trade in new cars in Britain fell for the fifth successive month in August.

New car registrations fell by 6.4 per cent in August compared with the same month in 2016, with 76,433 vehicles taking to the road for the first time last month according to the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders.

Jaguar Land Rover, which has an engine plant alongside the M54, saw sales fall. There were 565 new Jags sold last month, representing a 21.75 per cent drop on the same month a year ago, while Land Rover sales were 3.94 per cent lower with 1,512 cars sold over the month.

Some 1.64 million new cars have been sold so far during 2017, representing a decline, down by 2.4 per cent on the first eight months of 2016.

In the year-to-date Jaguar sales remain ahead by 16.02 per cent with 23,155 cars sold, and Land Rover sales stand at 52,452 – 7.01 per cent up on last year.

The cars include various parts made around Shropshire, including engines from the i54 plant beside the M54.

SMMT Chief Executive Mike Hawes said: "August is typically a quiet month for the new car market as consumers and businesses wait for the new number plate in September."

Outline plan for horse paddock is withdrawn

Blood Brothers to mark theatre's 70th

Flora Deeley, Ellis Dacker and Ray Curran rehearse for Dudley Little Theatre's Blood Brothers production later this month

THE Dudley Little Theatre gets its 70th anniversary under way in style with Willy Russell's drama Blood Brothers.

The adaptation marks the Nether-ton-based theatre's anniversary after it opened in October 1947. Since then the amateur group has produced hundreds of popular shows. To mark the occasion, the theatre offered its 60 members a chance to decide on this season's productions by voting for their four favourite plays the group has performed out of around 350 productions.

Blood Brothers, A Christmas Carol,

Deep Blue Sea and Allo Allo! came top.

Tony Stamp, who acts and directs, said: "Willy Russell wrote two versions of Blood Brothers, this is the non-musical version though there's still a bit of singing and dancing." Blood Brother runs September 20 to 23. See www.dudleylittltheatre.org website.

PROSECUTORS are looking at police files into a failed investment scheme linked to ex-Wolves star Michael McIndoe.

Sources close to the investigation say a top Crown Prosecution Service lawyer is examining the case following an inquiry by Scotland Yard. McIndoe, aged 37, was quizzed under caution by fraud squad detectives from the Metropolitan Police earlier this year.

He headed up a scheme which offered investors 20 per cent interest a month on their initial investments. A source said: "We are at a key point and there are a lot of people hoping to hear some developments soon."

McIndoe was declared bankrupt in 2014 and in documents at bankruptcy hearings it was revealed he owed 17 men nearly £3.5 million.

Five Wolves players are estimated to have lost £2.6m in the failed scheme with one group of players from the club handing over more than a million pounds in one payment in 2011.

Profits

Others to lose money include young footballers who were formerly at Walsall and Kidderminster Harriers.

The scheme was at its height during 2010 and initially investors got their money back and the profits. But by the end of 2011, money was in short supply and the payments stopped during the same season Wolves were relegated from the Premier League.

McIndoe denies any allegation of wrongdoing. He told a bankruptcy hearing that he had no money or bank accounts. No arrests have been made and no wrongdoing is implied.

It is believed McIndoe, has told insolvency experts that 'a friend' is helping him with his legal fees after he was declared bankrupt in October 2014. He has denied any wrongdoing and told a bankruptcy court he was a 'professional gambler'.

FIVE MINUTES FROM MERRY HILL

R-amping it up – Jamie works with the stars

He's a guitar hero

A life-long love of guitars has led Jamie Davey to the stars

Guitar-mad Jamie Davey has turned a boyhood obsession into a career that has seen him work with some of the biggest names in music.

From Robert Plant to Status Quo, stars have been queuing up for his technical expertise and custom-made instruments.

At his home in Pattingham, the 55-year-old repairs damaged guitars so that they can continue to be played for years to come.

In his workshops, he also builds new electric guitars from scratch according to a customer's personal specifications.

"It all began when I started playing the guitar when I was 14. I distinctly remember taking my first electric guitar to pieces because I was fascinated by how it worked," Jamie says.

As he got older he began fixing broken guitars in his spare time, until one day he was approached by the owner of Big Deal Music in Wolverhampton and offered a job carrying out repairs in the shop. He worked there for around five years before deciding to branch out by himself and open his own shop in Shifnal in 1999 with the ribbon cut by friend and Slade guitarist Dave Hill.

"When I started I only wanted to repair and build guitars but then I started selling a few items and the retail side really took off.

"We were doing very well and we were able to expand but then in 2008 we had the credit crunch. It went quiet and the phones stopped ringing. At the same time, I was noticing the impact the internet was having.

"Suddenly there were people selling guitars and amps online at trade prices. People weren't prepared to pay the retail price when they could get the same thing online cheaper with next day delivery.

"So I decided to close the shop in 2009 and move the business back home, concentrating on repairs and building like I'd wanted to do from the start.

"I was worried what would happen to my customers but as I was winding down my business I gave out cards with my home address and they followed me. I've got incredibly loyal customers and that means the world to me," adds Jamie, who has sons James, 27, and Ben, 26.

He can have between 40 and 50 guitars in his workshops for repair at any one time and has often restored instruments that have parts missing and even ones that have been smashed to pieces.

"I had a lad bring a guitar to me that had been reversed over by another member of his band.

"He was distraught because it had sentimental value. It was a £2,000 guitar and it was smashed all of the way through the middle.

"I was able to put it all back together and repaint it so it looked like new. He was over the moon.

"I had another one where the headstock had been completely broken off. I was able to sculpt a new one for it so you couldn't tell the difference.

"It went from being a piece of junk fire wood to a guitar again," he explains.

Among his celebrity clients have been Led Zeppelin frontman Robert, who he describes as one of the nicest people he has ever met.

"I've repaired three guitars for him. He's really down to earth, like a next door neighbour. He comes around for a cup of tea and plays with the cats," says Jamie, who is also a guitar tech for Wolverhampton singer/songwriter Scott Matthews.

His association with Status Quo began when he was recommended by a friend to keyboard player Andrew Bown, who was looking for someone to make a telecaster guitar for him.

When he went to deliver the instrument to him, the other members of the band took a fancy to it and placed their own orders with Jamie.

"It was brilliant just doing one guitar, I didn't expect them to order another five or six in one go.

"They've now had 33 guitars from me. They've been very good to me over the years. It was very sad when Rick Parfitt died last year.

"I've visited them at the studio and when they've been tour. They're in Wolverhampton in December so I will go and say 'hello' then. It's a real honour to work with them because I've been a fan since I was young," says Jamie who's also worked with Toyah Willcox and her husband Robert Fripp.

When it comes to custom orders, Jamie will either build the guitars from scratch or assemble them using ready-made parts, with prices starting from around £750.

The bodies are made from either solid alder, ash or mahogany. The shape is cut out using a template with the neck and headstock being made from separate piece of wood, usually maple. Sections are then removed from the body so that the neck and electrics can be installed. It's a labour of love, says Jamie.

"If I'm building from scratch, it can take around three to four months but if the hard work is already done for me it will take about a month.

"Each guitar comes with a specially engraved back plate displaying the customer's name and the instrument's serial number. It's normally blank so I like to add this personal touch," he says.

"The beauty of a custom-made guitar is that people can pick and choose what they like.

"Some people like a thin neck, while others prefer a thick telegraph pole and you can pick any colour you want.

"Some customers like solid colours, others like them to be see-through so you can see the grain of the wood through the paint.

Spanners

"It's a great feeling when I handover a guitar to someone and their face lights up."

A more unusual project saw him create a sparkly, silver star-shaped guitar for ABBA tribute act Björn Again, which was her replica of the one used by Björn Ulvaeus at the 1974 Eurovision Song Contest.

He also sets up new guitars, which involves working with the bridge, nut, and neck adjustments to suit the player and improve their sound.

"Someone will buy a guitar from eBay and it will sound like a bag of spanners so I will set it up for them.

"I've also been brought new guitars and been asked to age them. People like to have a battered guitar that looks a lot older than it because they think it looks cooler," explains Jamie.

"Whether I am setting up a guitar, repairing a guitar or building a new one, I will always treat someone else's guitar like it was my own.

"The best thing about my job is that it doesn't feel like one, I'm just doing my hobby every day."

MP Austin clashes with actor over Enoch's views

Fundraising after mother's diagnosis

Heidi Fellows, Louise Overton, Ayden Overton and Kerry Round will be fundraising for Alzheimer's Society

A WOMAN has told of her devastation after her mother was diagnosed with dementia – aged just 50.

Dudley resident Louise Overton, aged 32, was only 19 when she first noticed changes in her mother's behaviour years before any medical diagnosis. Jane Wilcox was 44 when she was started to develop dementia, which would eventually take not only her memory but also her voice.

Mrs Overton said: "We noticed things weren't quite right, mum was finally diagnosed when she was 50 and since then we have watched the painful process of deterioration."

Both mother and daughter had worked at Concord Market in Sedgley.

Now on a mission to raise funds and awareness of the condition, Mrs Overton will take part in the Alzheimer's Society's Memory Walk with other family members on Saturday in Sutton Park, Birmingham. She said: "My mum is now on complete bed rest, so I'm doing this walk for her, for other women who will need their mum and for the children who will need their nan."

A walk in hall grounds to help dementia charity

PEOPLE are being urged to lace up their running shoes and get ready to raise funds for charity.

A memory walk will take place at Himley next month for the Alzheimer's Society.

The Mayor of Dudley, Councillor Dave Tyler, is on the lookout for residents to take part in the fundraiser at Himley Hall and Park on Sunday, October 8.

The charity is one of three that the mayor is raising money for during his year in office. Anyone can take part, with adults welcome to bring children and dogs with them.

Walkers can choose to take either a two kilometre or six kilometre route around the parkland.

Councillor Tyler, said: "It should be a great day out, a lovely walk around a beautiful park for a very worthy cause. The memory walks are suitable for people of all ages and abilities, including people living with dementia. It's a great chance for families and friends to come together and raise cash."

Both walks set off at 11am. Children under 16 will need to take part with an adult registered to take part.

A ROW has broken out after Dudley North MP Ian Austin hit out at a Hollywood actor for suggesting controversial Wolverhampton MP Enoch Powell was not a racist.

Labour MP Mr Austin tweeted the award-winning British actor Ian McDiarmid, after the comments came to light in an interview.

The interview came as the actor, who is best known for his roles in the Star Wars film series, is playing Powell in theatre production 'What Shadows', which has been staged in Birmingham, Edinburgh and London.

By Clare Butler

The play looks at the furore surrounding Powell's notorious 'Rivers of Blood' speech, which was given in the politician's home city of Birmingham in 1968 when he was Conservative MP for Wolverhampton South West.

The play, which opened at the Birmingham REP last year, also features Powell's ill-fated relationship with former Express & Star editor Clem Jones set against the backdrop of the speech.

When McDiarmid was asked in The Telegraph interview by Ben Lawrence what he thought when he was initially asked to play the role, he said: "Oh God, I thought, that horrible racist." But when questioned if he still believed he was a racist now he replied 'I no longer think so'.

He added: "He [Powell] was certainly stirring things up in a way, which we would now describe as incitement because of the impact of its language. He was surprised by that impact, but he wasn't totally naive about it. He wanted to make his mark and knew how to speak to an England that was as divided then as it is now."

Mr Austin tweeted: "@IanMcDiarmid_ who plays Enoch Powell in What Shadows is wrong to claim he wasn't a racist. Completely wrong."

Mr Austin said: "Powell was appealing to the worst racist prejudices, and he knew exactly what he was doing."

Cum On Feel the Noize – Noddy Holder and Dave Hill in action with Slade during the glory days of the 1970s

'PEOPLE mek places. Buildings are there but it's people who mek places. And people mek the Black Country, them the salt of the earth. I've been everywhere in the world and there's nowhere as good as the Black Country.'

Slade were a product of the Black Country and Noddy Holder is proud of his roots and woe betide anyone who says a bad word about it.

"I speak to people who've never been to the Black Country or the Midlands. They all slag it off. But they've never bin. How the f do they know what they're talking about?" says the Freeman of Walsall.

Noddy is reminiscing about the early days as this year marks the 45th anniversary of the band's breakthrough album Slade Alive which went straight to number two in the charts. It was their first record to enter the UK top 40 and stayed there for more than a year. It has been re-released to coincide with the anniversary.

He reflects: "I've probably not lived there for 40 years, thinking of the time I left Walsall. It's certainly 30-odd years. But when I drive into the Midlands, if I go and buy a paper in a shop, the accent of the customers makes me feel at home."

He gets recognised everywhere he goes. People in the shops say

ANDY RICHARDSON catches up with rock hero NODDY HOLDER as Slade Alive! is re-released

'alright Noddy, ow yow doin'? It's like they know you and them yur mate. They'll tell me to get me hair cut. They still have that sense of humour. So you feel like you're home.

"I tell yow summat. People who live in the Black Country doe appreciate what they got. I know the yooof don't because occasionally I give talks to colleges and schools. They don't appreciate the history of the area.

Chips

"It don't matter where you go in the world, there's few places you get the warmth that you get from the Black Country. I get the same vibe from the southern states in America. There's the atmosphere, the people and the music – it's the same as the Midlands.

"And I tell you summat else. You won't get better fish and chips, or curry, no matter where you go. The pubs are great and the characters you meet in them are the best in the world."

He remembers recording Slade Alive as though it were only yesterday. The band had been on Top Of The Pops that night. It cost just £600 to make and recorded over three nights at London's Command Theatre Studio in front of an audience, the idea of manager, Chas Chandler, who also produced.

Noddy says: "Chas wanted something to keep the fans interested so we went along with it. He booked us into a studio on Piccadilly in London for three nights on a Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. On the Wednesday we were called into Top Of The Pops with Coz I Luv You, which was our next single. It was selling like hot cakes.

"So we went straight from TOTP to Command Studios after the recording. We'd done TOTP and had a few drinks. We were buzzing. We walked on stage and the atmosphere was brilliant.

"In the end, we scrapped the recordings from Tuesday and Thursday and just used the gig from Wednesday because it was so good. We captured the raucousness of our live shows on that record. We'd been trying to capture it on record before because that's what Slade was all about.

"It was all about that spontaneous, raucous guitars – we were a real rock'n'roll band.

"Before then, every time we'd been in the studio the engineers would be telling us to turn the amps down because we were always too loud for everyone. But we played at full pike on Slade Alive."

The record was recorded in late November 1971 and came out in early spring 1972. It changed the game and earned them the acclaim. And yet, remarkably, they

An early shot of Slade taken when they used to travel down to London

Glam bam – Nod and co conquered the charts on both sides of the Atlantic had yet to enjoy the fruits of their success.

Noddy says: "At the time of recording we were all still living with our parents, although we were hardly ever there because we were touring that much or recording in London.

"But the Midlands was still our base because we couldn't afford to move anywhere. We hadn't started making any money at that point."

Slade Alive opened the floodgates and they were sent to Europe to tour. In Australia, the record went to number one and stayed there for six months. "It was only knocked off the week we arrived and re-released our next album, Slayed? We had the number one and number two album and three singles in the chart. It was the same in Canada.

But we were never an overnight success. That was the culmination of five years of hard slog."

Slade experienced something akin to Beatlemania during the early 1970s. From 1971 to 1973 they enjoyed six number one hits, two number two hits and a single, Look Wot You Dun, that made it to number four. They breached the USA chart and enjoyed success across Europe.

Noddy enjoyed his time with the band – "what we had was unique" – though he declined an opportunity to rejoin.

"I'd had 25 years with the same people every day. I wanted something different."

It's hard work but we were obsessed

Strictly Come Dancing made them household names. But Vincent and Flavia have outlasted the BBC's number one family show by hitting the road for a series of UK tours.

They are back on the road with a new production, Tango Moderno, and will headline Birmingham's New Alexandra Theatre from Tuesday until September 23 – with extra matinees on Wednesday and the Saturday.

Tango Moderno is the irresistible new stage spectacular from tango superstars Vincent Simone and Flavia Cacace.

Dance partners for over two decades, world champions, Strictly favourites and West End stage stars Vincent and Flavia plan to fuse Ballroom, Latin, and Argentine tango to give fans a performance that smoulders with desire.

Their latest show follows the successes of Midnight Tango, hailed as 'a triumph' by the Daily Telegraph, the 'utterly unmissable' Dance Til Dawn (Smooth Radio) and the 'fabulous must-see' The Last Tango (Radio Times).

Flavia says the dancer's fourth show will give fans something new. "It's always important to try something we've not done before. The fourth time round is difficult because we've done so many different stories.

"But we wanted this show to be more modern, more up to date, so the music will be a little more recognisable, particularly by the younger generation. It's music from the radio, it's set in an urban city and it's got that contemporary vibe. There'll be a story and we'll be part of the narration."

PASSION

Vincent added that dance was his great passion – but staying focused for a long UK tour was always tough.

"Motivation is the hardest part, to be honest. All the people that dance and do this job will agree. When it's live on stage it's great because you connect to the normal people. They are the people – mums, parents and so on – who keep you going.

"And that's great because they keep you sane. You suffer from solitude quite a lot because you're away every week at different hotels. Sometimes you wake up and think 'where am I?' because we travel so much."

Putting together a major new show is tough. It takes weeks and weeks of 10am-to-6pm rehearsals before a technical week ahead of the first show. Flavia says: "You have really long days and there is a bit of adrenalin and nerves. Once the show's up and running it eases off. We tend to do a half-hour warm-up before every show. We have a little time off and people do their own thing, going to the gym, resting or walking. You learn to do that, or you take a massage or see the physio."

Vincent moved to the UK when he was 17 to follow his dream of dancing.

"I wanted to become the best in the world, as everybody else does, so I moved here. It was a coincidence that I met Flavia, who was Italian and moved here at the age of four.

"Every day, we had dance lessons and were training. Our lives were really about that, you know, about competitions and trying to win. We wanted to get into the final and get the world championship. That was our lives."

The couple then got asked to do a couple of performances on Strictly before the show's producer asked them to become a part of it full-time.

Flavia said: "We didn't know how big the Partners through time – Vincent and Flavia love dancing together show was. Even now, I can't believe we've been through all of that. It was amazing."

Vincent says: "Before we were famous in the ballroom world and we could walk the high street. Now people stop us and want to have a photo. It was a shock to the system. Since then, we've never looked for work, it's come to us. We didn't think 'shall we do theatre?' The producers came to us and here we are."

Favia adds: "It's been a long road and initially during the first part of our careers it was a hell of a lot of sacrifice. You think back and realise how hard you worked and that we didn't have a life. We were obsessed with the weekend being about travelling to an event and a competition and paying a £40 entry fee."

"Then at 10am we'd do round one and come out at 10pm in the evening. That was the weekend gone. Then it was dance lessons, practice rehearsals and training. Now we look back and it's 'wow'. We wouldn't do that again. My niece is dancing these days but I am so not-pro dancing. I know how hard it is and what you have to go through. I'm trying to sway her off. It's really hard work. I know the sacrifice young people have to make in their teens and 20s. It can affect lots of things in later life. But it's worked for us and we've kept going and gone from one thing for another. We were lucky, things could have been very different. We don't regret anything."

The couple have visited Birmingham on plenty of occasions and always feel at home in the Second City. They're looking forward to their return and will be out and about in the city's restaurants and shops.

Favia says: "We love Birmingham and are always happy to come up there. I remember places because of the shopping. I try to go to Lasan every time, if my husband comes up. He loves Birmingham too and studied there."

Vincent adds: "I used to buy, buy, buy. I'd buy one for the stage and one for myself. My wardrobe is exploding. So no more shopping. There might be a beautiful leather jacket, however, so you never know."

John Legend

Legend to enjoy Darkness and Light at his concert

Acclaimed, multi-platinum selling, Oscar, Golden Globe and Grammy Award winning singer-songwriter John Legend brings his 'Darkness and Light' tour to the Arena Birmingham on Wednesday.

Featuring the singles Surefire and Love Me Now, the album Darkness and Light was released to critical acclaim in December 2016.

Since its release – the fifth studio album from the American singer – Legend has co-executive produced and starred in the box office smash musical La La Land, which has gone on to win seven Golden Globe

Awards and six Academy Awards. He also performed the title track to the recent Disney live action remake of Beauty and the Beast with the increasingly popular Ariana Grande.

It's worth getting to the Birmingham city centre venue early to catch support from husky-voiced singer-songwriter Jack Savoretti, who won lots of new fans with his albums Written in Scars and Sleep No More.

Tickets for the Barclaycard Arena date are on sale, starting at £51.53, from www.theticketfactory.com or by calling 0844 33 88 222.

A musician faces greatest challenge

Tom Kempinski's award-winning play Duet For One, about a talented musician struck down by a debilitating illness, is being staged at Birmingham Rep from September 22 to October 7.

In this powerful, moving and at times poignantly funny play, Stephanie Abrahams is a brilliant concert violinist who seemingly has it all, but is forced to re-evaluate her life by a shock diagnosis.

Faced with a truth too difficult to comprehend she consults psychiatrist Dr Feldmann, resulting in a duel between two razor-sharp minds in Kempinski's ultimately life-enhancing tribute to the human spirit.

The play, which was inspired by the life of cellist Jacqueline Du Pré, premiered at the Bush Theatre in 1980 with Frances De La Tour and David de Keyser and had great success in West End and Broadway runs.

It also had a major revival in 2009 starring Juliet Stephenson and Henry Goodman.

The film adaptation of Duet For One, released in 1986, saw Julie Andrews nominated for the Golden Globe for Best Actress.

Jemma Redgrave was billed to play the role of Stephanie Abrahams but had to pull out of the production due to ill health.

Now the part is being played by Belinda Lang, pictured above, familiar from her TV roles in 2point4 Children and Second Thoughts.

She last trod the boards at Birmingham Rep in East is East.

Oliver Cotton, best known for his role as Cesare Borgia in BBC series The Borgias, will play Dr Feldmann.

Advance tickets are £25 from the box office on 01902 401211 or online at www.therobin.co.uk, or £27 on the door.

Other gigs to look out for include traditional 70s-style rockers The Quireboys at Wolverhampton Slade Rooms this Saturday, the same night Nick Dagger brings The Counterfeit Stones to the Robin 2. Deborah Bonham is at the Slade Rooms next Friday, September 22, the same night Big Country, with singer Simon Hough, are at the Robin.

Gary is gagging for new tour date

Stand-up comic Gary Delaney is bringing his There's Something About Gary show to Stourbridge Town Hall on Saturday.

The Solihull-born comic, married to fellow comedian Sarah Millican, is the only comic ever to have got two gags in the top 10 for Dave's TV Funniest Jokes. His last tour took in more than 200 venues. Delaney, a double Sony Award winner, is a regular on TV's Mock the Week.

5* JOURNEY AROUND INDIA

Imagine walking into Mumbai train station, this is the start to your journey! You can be seated in any area of your trains destination, and enjoy a cultural evening of superb Indian food.

Journeys Indian Restaurant and Bar has recently opened off the Wolverhampton Road not far from the Birchly Island, and a visit will leave you mesmerised at the decor, service and taste.

Upon arrival we were met by a smartly dressed waiter called Monty, who we found to be very knowledgeable about the menu, decor and the history of the train stations of India. He escorted us to our carriage and when we were seated at our table we were able to choose a drink from a variety of Indian lagers, cocktails and wines.

We followed Monty's recommendations and selected the Achari Lamb Chops and Sweet Chili Chicken as our starter which were so tender and succulent and followed it up with a main course of Methi Garlic Chicken and the Chicken Biryani.

The train took us to food heaven, the presentation was outstanding and the taste of the different herbs and spices was sensational.

My partner and myself were so delighted with our Journey we have booked a return ticket!

Electric Dreams: The HoodMaker
(Channel 4, 9pm)

New series. Sci-fi anthology series featuring stories based on the works of Philip K Dick. The first story is set in a strangely archaic future city, following a devastating meteor shower that has wiped out much of the world's technology. The cataclysm has also led to the development of a breed of telepathic mutants, and as tensions arise between the new race of 'teeps' and the remnants of humanity, war seems inevitable. The only hope of stopping the conflict falls to a human and a teep struggling to suppress their feelings for one another.

Wedding smile

back in a day

A cost-effective solution, the All-on-4™ therapy can offer new teeth in a single day. Encouraged by her granddaughter, a dental professional, super-nan Janet Harris opted for this lifestyle investment that has helped recapture her Big Day smile

WHEN Janet Harris's smile was compromised she knew exactly what she wanted from her dentist. "Definitely no dentures," the super-nan says emphatically. "My mother had more sets of false teeth than I have fingers, she could never master them and I'm sure I couldn't either," she adds.

"I wanted something just like my own teeth – there's nothing like them – and I didn't want brilliant white teeth either... they look ridiculous on someone my age," says the spritely 70-something-year-old financial controller, who works full-time for her family profile cutting business.

Memorable moment

"No," she affirms, taking a black and white wedding album picture from her handbag. "I wanted teeth like those in this photograph when I was 19, natural and not too white." Snapped on her Big Day with husband Colin and brother Brian at the then newly-built Catholic church in Whiteheath, Janet was determined to recover the smile of that memorable moment.

She admits to being lucky with her native teeth and the dentistry she has received since she was child.

But after surviving an astonishing 30 years, three teeth on an upper left bridge fell out. "I also had five teeth at the front on a bridge and I knew it was time to get some new dental work done," she says.

With care, it's possible for bridges to last up to eight years.

"I'd lost a few back teeth when I was a girl. Mum, who was terrified of the dentist, didn't believe in fillings and I was dispatched with my father to have teeth out," she adds.

Those memories of having gas extractions, the predictable sickness afterwards and "the horrible, black rubber mask" are vivid, but Janet still braved regular dental appointments throughout her life. She recalls how her friend attended a questions and answers open day at North Street Dental and Implant Clinic after experiencing problems with a prosthetic prescription and recommended her to chat with the friendly staff.

'No pain'

After initial consultations with implant surgeon Owain Rees BDS GDDP (UK) Dip Imp Dent (UCL) and Steven Burchell Dip CDT RCS(Eng), Janet continued to research her clinical options.

"I started coming [to the surgery] every other week to be clear in my own mind about the decision on the treatment. Every-one was patient with me and very helpful answering my questions," says Janet.

Deciding on an All-on-4 option, a system where her full upper arch of teeth is secured on four strategically sited implants, the procedure was completed within a single day.

"I came in on a Wednesday at 9am and by 3.30pm I had my teeth in," she says.

With conscious sedation during the procedure, Janet was able to leave the surgery by

4pm. "I genuinely had no pain – well, except for the fact I couldn't have a glass of wine for a few days," she jokes.

And the wedding day look? "I've got a few more wrinkles now, but it's pretty close."

Adds Steven: "Using the picture to get the aesthetics right was helpful, but we went through a few hoops getting there as we considered the natural ageing process on the teeth."

"The result is a natural look that functions just like native teeth."

Recovering her wedding day smile with the All-on-4 therapy is Jannet Harris. Inset: The Big Day image from which Steven Burchell had to work

□ All-on-4 is a cost-effective implant solution that aims to use only four implants for a complete arch of teeth.

□ Following preparatory consultations and possible other dental treatment, the therapy can usually be carried out in a day.

□ There is no waiting for healing time between surgery and teeth replacement unlike conventional implant placement.

□ The use of angled implants will sometimes enable treatment of those patients who have previously not been suitable implant candidates.

It's a dog's life for the doctor as the series returns

Will we ever grow tired of Dr Martin Ellingham and his adventures?

It's 13 years since the first series of Doc Martin aired, and our love for it continues to grow. In fact, it's been somewhat painful to be without new episodes during the past couple of years.

But now Martin Clunes and the rest of Portwenn's familiar faces are back for a new run, which will also see Sigourney Weaver reprise her guest role as an American tourist, and Clunes' old Men Behaving Badly sparring partner Caroline Quentin return as eccentric vet Angela Sim. Art Malik is also set to pop up as a visitor with intriguing news.

For Clunes, returning as the grumpy medic was a no-brainer – he describes playing him as “the best job in telly,” adding, “what could possible match this: staying in the West country, surrounded by dogs and people I like?”

“I really love doing this. I love everything about it. I love being in Cornwall, even though I hate being away from home. If I have got to be away from home then I'd be here. I love being near the sea. I love being out of cities.”

Clunes, along with his wife Philippa Braithwaite, is one of the show's producers via their company Buffalo Pictures, and as a thank you to the people of Port Isaac, where the programme is filmed, they have set up a trust fund to help pay for a few local amenities, including a new car park – after all, the hundreds of people who come to watch them film have to be able to put their vehicles somewhere.

“The crowds who come to watch have to be marshalled but we have not shied away from it because the village is such a part of the series,” says Clunes. “It never bothers me to see the crowds watching us filming. I talk to them, I look at their dogs. The most helpful thing is the dogs. You don't have to talk just about the fact you're on the telly, you can talk about the dogs.”

As you can probably tell (if you weren't already away), Clunes is mad about canines. Sadly, his alter ego can't stand them, so imagine his horror when the Doc is forced to take in Buddy after his wife Louisa tells him that having a dog will be good for their son James Henry.

“The Doc is making a real effort to make things work between him and Louisa, and to be a better husband and father.

“As ever the Doc would rather nothing changed, and is resilient to the notion of change almost for the sake of it, but he sees that having the dog living with them is something Louisa wants, and is ultimately supportive, and actually allows a dog into the house.

“But the introduction of the dog is a token,” adds Clunes. “It's a trial period with strict parameters, and when no-one is looking he throws the dog out...”

Will Buddy eventually win him over? Let's hope so for all their sakes.

BEST OF THE REST

MONDAY

BBC2, 10pm

For a while, it seemed that we had seen the last of Ian Fletcher and his Head of Values team. For two years we've been without their hapless machinations brightening up our screens – had bosses at the Beeb decided that the mockumentary's antics made them look foolish? Perish the thought! Thankfully it seems they do have a sense of humour and are happy to poke fun at themselves because the sitcom is back for a third series this week. Once again Hugh Bonneville plays the nice but mostly completely ineffective Ian, who must find a way of making the BBC's new mantra of ‘doing more of less’ work. As ever, he is assisted – or more often than not hampered – by a motley group of individuals played by Sarah Parish, Jessica Hynes, Jason Watkins, Hugh Skinner and Nina Sosanya.

TUESDAY

Robson Green's Coastal Lives

ITV, 8pm

You don't need to trek to far-flung lands to witness incredible sights and people, as this series proves. This week the presenter travels to the island of Anglesey, off the north coast of Wales, to meet a family who live in an ancient fisherman's cottage in the Menai Straits that they have restored. Robson also meets a woman who has left her stressful life in the city to set up a paddle boarding company on the island. And he chats a couple who have spent 12 years renovating their dream cliff top home with spectacular views over the Irish Sea.

WEDNESDAY

Bad Move

ITV, 8pm

Jack Dee may have started out as a stand-up comedian, but in recent years he's dabbled in the sitcom world. Power Monkeys, Josh and Lead Balloon. Now he's back with Bad Move, in which he stars alongside Kerry Godliman, who's best known for playing Hannah opposite Ricky Gervais in Derek. They play married couple Steve and Nicky, who have both been wed before but are feeling a little fed up with their lot. As a result, they decide to swap their city life for a new existence in the country - and soon with they hadn't. The first episodes of sitcoms are rarely hilarious, serving only to introduce the characters and the premise, but this one shows plenty of promise, and we look forward to seeing how it develops over its six-part run.

THURSDAY

Channel 4, 8pm

New series. Noel Fitzpatrick and his team return to provide more cutting-edge animal care, beginning with a dramatic emergency. A real taste of the Deep South

AN authentic taste of the American south, but in an unexpected place – Hickory's Smokehouse.

I was there not just to sample the food, but to experience the place. It had burned down almost a year ago, and greatly missed by the community, has been rebuilt again from the ground up.

Hickory's in Kingswinford is now every inch the typical Deep South American smokehouse, but with a few unique differences. Entering the restaurant you can't help but notice the homage to the fire that transformed it; a stencilled phoenix takes pride of place, painted on the centre wall.

BOOTHS

Cosy red leather-clad booths accommodate parties of up to 12, and we were seated in one that gives us one of the best views in the house. The snazzy bar to the right gives customers the chance to sample the cocktails, while the small cinema gives children the chance to watch a film before their food arrives.

Table tennis is on offer in the garden – the perfect antidote to the abundant portions and there's an open-pit cooking spicy sausage.

Though it's one of a chain of six restaurants around the country, it doesn't feel like one. The décor is kitsch and fun. It's comfortable and cheerful.

We were spoilt for choice when we checked out the menu. For starters, I went for the home-baked American pretzel with garlic dip, while my boyfriend David goes for the Louisiana seafood gumbo. When both dishes arrive we (by that I mean I) decide we'll share. The gumbo was a spicy paella-esque bowl of goodness, just the right size, complete with prawns, mussels, perfectly-cooked rice and a sauce with a spicy kick.

The waiting staff, attentive and pleasant can't do

Hickory's specialises in meat platters

Back where it belongs – Hickory's in Kingswinford enough for us, and advise to have the Smokehouse Platter. Three different types of ribs, brisket, pulled pork with beans and in-house smoked sausage, it's served with skin-on-fries, coleslaw and pickles.

When it came out on a board almost as big as our kitchen worktop, we momentarily regretted ordering the starters. But the brisket was so tender, the Kansas-style barbecue glazed spare ribs so flavoursome, we couldn't get enough of them.

The staff are very knowledgeable in not only where the meat comes from – a family butcher based in Flint – but also the best kind of hot sauce to go with it. David is braver than I am, trying the searingly hot psycho juice that immediately turned his face pink, while I stuck with the CaJohns sauce. There's so many to choose from, I lose count. But if condiments aren't really your thing (which they aren't to me) then the meat itself was tasty and tender enough to go without.

We asked for a break between courses, and the staff were more than happy to oblige, praising our attempt to finish off the main. But there was a dessert I'd had my eye on from the start. We ordered the cinnamon sugar-coated churros and I go for the S'mores. This is described as a crushed ginger nut biscuit base topped with melted chocolate and toasted marshmallow. Upon first bite, it seems incredibly rich, almost sickly. But three bites in and I was addicted.

Next time I think I'll opt for a smaller main, just to make sure I fully enjoy it and finish the other courses. But then again, they do offer doggy bags so you can take away a bit of Louisiana with you. The bill came to £60.95 – not half bad for more than half an animal and two other courses besides.

Take journey to remember on this stallion of the road

By Ian Donaldson

We know other countries by a cartload of clichés – so Americans are loud, probably flamboyantly dressed and certainly a little on the large side.

If that's true about its people (some of the time anyway), the cars from the other side of the pond certainly share those traits. And not always in a bad way.

Which brings us neatly to the car on test today, the latest version of a true American icon and only now available in this sixth generation form with right hand drive.

Ford's Mustang shook up the car world in 1965 by combining a big engine, handsome lines and a relatively modest price in a way that had never been attempted before.

It succeeded beyond the wildest dreams of its creators and stands here today looking fresh and arrestingly handsome and dripping with styling clues stretching back to that game-changing original. The big engine is still there, with more than 400 horses from a rumbling V8 that stays docile as a purring tiger until you poke it with a sharp stick, when it heads for the horizon with the sort of conviction only an excess of power can provide.

For £4,350 less you can take an alternative route to modern day Mustang heaven with a 2.3 litre EcoBoost engine with four cylinders

This new Mustang is powerful and handsome and it is also big and 313bhp; actually still quick (145mph and 5.8sec to 62mph) but missing a chunk of Mustang authenticity.

You'll also miss the noise of that big V8 bursting into life in the morning, a pulse so smile-raising it ought to be available on prescription. You'll save some fuel going the smaller engine way, but if you want economy, buy a Prius, I'd say.

So, this new 'stang is powerful and handsome. It is also big; what's more of a surprise is the modesty of the price Ford is asking for its icon.

You can have a 5.0 litre version on your drive for £38,095, handily below the forty grand line that tips you into extra road tax territory, although that big, thirsty engine's tailpipe emissions mean a hefty £2,000 first year rate.

Console yourself with the knowledge that a properly big-engined Mustang is the least expensive way to this amount of V8 power you can buy new today. Almost a bargain, then.

A well-equipped bargain too, with superbly comfortable front seats (and enough room in the rear for growing teenagers), dual zone air con, rear view camera, expensive Brembo front brakes, limited slip differential and big 19ins alloy wheels.

Duster making its mark among SUVs

Having sold over two million units since launch, Duster, a vehicle with an international calling, has become one of Groupe Renault's top-selling models. Dacia's SUV has made its mark in its segment.

In seven years, it has won over customers looking for a versatile, reliable and affordable vehicle. Duster's powers of attraction are practically limitless. Its highly attractive price, top-level off-road abilities, robustness and design leave no-one indifferent. Read on to find out more about a revolutionary model that has carved out a special place in the wide world of SUVs.

Marketing an SUV at the price of a city car was a bold move. When Dacia made that move in 2010, it hit on a major success. The theme of affordability was the focus of the Duster ad, in which a somewhat caricatural couple ask about the price of Duster after test driving it.

When told that prices start at €11,900, the customer is offended: "You don't think we're going to spend so little?" The Dacia Duster phenomenon was born.

The model sold over 450,000 in three years. Building on that success, the brand launched a restyled Duster in 2013 that met with the same enthusiasm, the car's now enviable popularity being expressed from 2016 on in the advertising slogan, "Another one drives a Duster".

Duster's price was clearly important at a time of economic crisis, but the car's success cannot be reduced to its attractive price alone. The model's intrinsic all-terrain qualities have also contributed largely to its success. The car's design leaves no room for doubt as to

The model has sold over 450,000 in its first three years and a restyled Duster was launched in 2013 its SUV nature. Without being over the top, the styling is that of a true 4WD model. The front end exudes a sense of robustness. The wide, curvaceous wings, double light units and protective bumper clearly express the car's SUV DNA. The raised ground clearance, large wheels (16") and multiple protective features invite drivers to venture out on the toughest roads and tracks.

The interior is equally outstanding, with a modern, functional and modular cabin. And the impertinence of Dacia's SUV does not stop there, as it features C-segment equipment at B-segment prices.

With the launch of Duster, Dacia confirmed its boldness, first seen six years earlier with the release of Logan. The Dacia brand became a benchmark in new approaches to automotive consumption.

It shook up established cues once again with the launch of Duster, a true, roomy and versatile SUV for the price of a compact car.

As with all Dacia models, Duster targets customers looking to buy a fairly-priced car, an affordable vehicle with the equipment responding to their needs. In addition to its affordability, the brand moved into a new territory: the SUV market. This served to win over new customers looking for a car with real all-terrain abilities. These new customers include first-time buyers and those who would otherwise have bought a used car. With a new market and new customer base, the Dacia brand is perpetuating its success and even bringing together its own community. The Dacia community organises picnics that every year draw thousands of people in many of the brand's countries. Dacia customers are true fans, highly active in the social networks. More than simple customers, they are the brand's best ambassadors.

Duster was created in response to an observation: a need exists worldwide for roomy, robust and affordable 4x4 cars. But at the time that need was mostly unfulfilled. Which is why Dacia came up with a world first and developed an SUV primarily targeting developing markets.

The needs of European motorists were also taken into account from the start of the project. In Europe, Dacia's success demonstrates customers are looking for modern, reliable and affordable cars. But as a whole, the 4x4 offer, though broad, is more about ostentatious and expensive models – often not adapted to off-road use – rather than functional and affordable all-terrain vehicles.

The Duster story is set to continue with the reveal of New Duster at the Frankfurt Motor Show on September 12.

MP: Take gambling logos off club shirts

TOM Watson has called for a ban on betting firms sponsoring football shirts as Labour pledged to tackle the 'hidden epidemic' of gambling addiction.

The West Bromwich East MP and Labour deputy leader unveiled the policy as part of a series of proposals aimed at protecting children from early exposure to betting.

Mr Watson, who is also the party's shadow minister for digital, culture media and sport, said a Labour government would encourage the Football Association to implement its own ban but was prepared to legislate if necessary.

"Football has to play its part in tackling Britain's hidden epidemic of gambling addiction," he said. "Shirt sponsorship sends out a message that football clubs don't take problem gambling among their own fans seriously enough. It puts gambling brands in front of fans of all ages, not just at matches but on broadcasts and highlights packages on both commercial television and the BBC."

Retiring Motty set for date at Banks's

JOHN Motson's retirement season will take in an after-dinner date at Walsall Football Club.

The legendary commentator hangs up his mic at the end of the season after 50 years in the game. Before then, the 72-year-old will use his famous tones at the Banks's Stadium's WFC The Venue on Thursday November 16. Motson began his career with the corporation in 1968, initially as a presenter on Radio 2. Three years later, he joined the Match of the Day team and remained there ever since.

He will have completed his 47th season when he finally hangs up the headset, having commentated on more than 1,500 games for television and radio. He has also covered European Championships and World Cups for the channel, the Euro 2008 final being his last live broadcast.

Tickets to see him in Walsall are on sale at £39.50 or £350 for a table of 10 which includes a three-course meal. Book online at www.eticketing.co.uk/walsallfc or call the box office on 01902 651 416, extension 416.

Wolves captain Bill Slater holds the FA Cup aloft in 1960

Gr-eight way to kick off season as Wolves excel

Ted Farmer scoring after just two minutes against Manchester City

Striker Jimmy Murray, who got two goals himself

OPTIMISM, enthusiasm and excitement are the emotions all football fans deserve to feel at the start of a new season.

But you can't help but feel that positivity is in short supply for supporters of Yeovil after they saw their team thrashed 8-2 by Luton in their first game on August 5.

The Hatters ran riot on the opening day to send a message to their League Two rivals, and they are now in contention with the top teams of the division.

But they are not the only side to kick off a new campaign in such convincing fashion, as Wolves fans can testify.

It was back on August 18, 1962, that the Molineux men began their season in similar style with victory over Manchester City.

Eager to make up for a disappointing 18th-placed finish in the First Division the previous year, Stan Cullis opted to rebuild his side with the emphasis on youth. Youngsters Fred Goodwin and David Woodfield were handed their debuts for what marked Ron Flowers' first game as Wolves' captain.

And while it was a day where everybody shone, it was Ted Farmer who grabbed the headlines after he notched four stunning goals.

It took the striker just two minutes to break the deadlock - Farmer latching on to Flowers' throw-in before calmly slotting the ball past the keeper.

Jimmy Murray tapped in for a second when he connected with Alan Hinton's low ball into the box. But it then looked like City would make a fight of it when Wolves' George Showell inadvertently diverted the ball into his own net. Wolves moved to quickly to deny the visitors hopes of a fightback when Farmer again found the target with a crisp finish just before half-time.

But immediately after the interval, Cullis's side took charge with Wolves grabbing three goals between the 47th and 51st minute.

The first arrived when Terry Wharton drove home from close range. Farmer then sealed his hat-trick with another impressive finish.

The forward then grabbed an assist, which was no doubt just called 'a pass' in those days, when he teed up Hinton for a simple close range finish. From this point, a City side with no answers saw Wolves take complete control.

They made it seven when Farmer sent Hinton away down the wing with his cross then being met by Murray for his second of the game.

Then with 10 minutes to go, Farmer completed the rout with yet another neat finish. Wolves season saw them finish in fifth place, with Everton champions.

Heathens still aim to sign off in style

CRADLEY boss Will Pottinger's bid for his side to go out with a bang against Eastbourne on Monday was put on hold when their final home league meeting of the season at Monmore was postponed due to downpours.

The Heathens are set to miss out on the Travel Plus National League play-offs but Pottinger says they are determined to give their loyal fans something to shout about.

They still have the second leg of their Knockout Cup tie with Belle Vue to take place at Perry Barr on Wednesday, October 27 while plans are in place to host their showpiece Golden Hammer individual event to close the season at Monmore Green in October.

Patched-up Cradley were thrashed 60-28 at Mildenhall on Sunday. The Heathens headed to West Row with just Danny Ayres available from their regular contingent, and they were well beaten on a tough afternoon. Guest Connor Coles impressed against his former club, while Ayres was also in the thick of the action throughout. But they had no answer to the Fen Tigers and were second best from start to finish.

MILDENHALL 60: Jordan Jenkins 14, Connor Mountain 10+2, Drew Kemp 10+2, Jon Armstrong 10+1, Dan Halsey 9, Alex Spooner 7+3, Luke Ruddick r/r.

CRADLEY 28: Connor Coles 13, Danny Ayres 7, William O'Keefe 6, Joe Alcock 2+1, Jamie Bursill 0, Lewis Whitmore 0, Richard Hall r/r.

A new date has yet to be set for the visit by Eastbourne.

Runners take on half-marathon around Welsh lake

ATHLETES from Dudley Kingswinford Running Club ventured further afield at the weekend as a large group travelled to mid Wales for the annual Lake Vyrnwy Half Marathon, a 13.1 mile race around the lake.

The flat loop makes for fast times, particularly with a downhill start, but runners have a grit-your-teeth uphill finish to contend with.

Darran Bishop backed up a good run at Wolverhampton with another impressive performance coming home first for the club in 67th place in a time of 1:24.05.

Mark Gatenby finished in 86th place in 1:27.11, Andy Weaver was 278th in 1:40.22, John Andrews finished in 1:49.28 to take 462nd place.

Richard Jones was 520th in 1:51.52 despite turning his ankle just a week prior to the race, Malcolm Beddall was 575th in 1:53.11, Ingrid Cain was 830th in 2:06.30 with Paula Pallant recording the same time and a position behind. Jan Burbie was 956th in 2:13.54, Susan Barley was 982nd in 2:14.54, Claire Hancox was 1000th in 2:15.48 and Donna Proffitt was 1040th in 2:17.26.

Rutter is third at wet Silverstone

Brierley Hill racer Michael Rutter

MICHAEL Rutter recorded his ninth podium finish of the season with third place at Silverstone.

The Brierley Hill racer guided his BMW S1000RR to third place at the Pirelli National Superstock 1000 Championship at Silverstone to maintain third overall in the title standings.

Rutter qualified second on the grid with a 2min 10.8sec lap in shortened qualifying session due to a torrential downpour, and Richard Cooper clinched a last lap victory over Chrissy Rouse with Rutter completing the top three.

"It was quite a difficult weekend in terms of the weather," said Rutter. "We hardly got any decent track time during practice and qualifying and I only managed something like 11 laps prior to the race. We didn't get time to work on set-up as no sooner had we done a flying lap, rain came and brought everything to an early end."

After posting the second fastest time in Friday's practice, Saturday's qualifying session was hit by rain. The next round takes place at Oulton Park September 15-17.

GREALEY GRABS BONUS FOR DK

Sutton 7 Dudley Kingswinford 28

THE visit to Walmley Road saw DK triumph over Sutton Coldfield, which rewarded DK with five points.

With the majority of the points coming in the second half, the travelling support were on edge for much of the game.

The opening phase was played more in the Sutton half with DK starting to impose their patterns of play on the game, but they were often pegged back by the referee.

Then second phase saw DK play patiently, retaining the ball and start to find the edges of the Sutton defence.

DK turned this period of play into points when the ball moved out to Jordan Brookes, who ran the ball back towards the pack. On his shoulder was a rampaging Rich Kelley who carried the move on through the defence, then an offload to Pete Griffiths saw him burst through a cover tackle and under the posts for the first DK try. Duncan Tompkins made it 7-0.

Card

The third period of play saw Sutton come right back into the game, and a yellow card for Danny Hawkins, saw the pressure mount on DK. DK were no sooner back to 15, then Ben Brown was also yellow carded.

DK were able to regroup in the break. It was 14 to DK after a penalty try. Then Mitch Grealey left Nic Adams with a simple run in, plus the extras from Duncan Tompkins 21-0 to DK.

Sutton were not done and came back to 7-21 but DK went all out for a fourth try and the bonus point in the last 15 minutes, they were soon back into their attacking patterns.

With time running out one such phase of play saw a gap open up for Grealey in the centre of the field, and he was straight through and under the posts for a bonus point try and the conversion from Tompkins made it 7-28 to DK.

Gaskin grasps big opportunity

45-year-old Stourbridge athlete Chris Gaskin excels at swimming, cycling and running

A STOURBRIDGE athlete will be competing alongside the likes of Jonny Brownless and Jodie Stimpson in the ITU World Triathlon Championships in Rotterdam this weekend.

Chris Gaskin, aged 45, will represent Team GB in the event on Saturday and Sunday – just two years since first taking up the sport.

However, he nearly didn't get there after failing to register his interest following a race in June.

Gaskin first set his sights on the worlds after winning a series of I events. He said: "In order to get to the championships there were three qualifying events held across the country. To get automatic qualification you had to finish in the top four in any one of the three events."

In June, he finished third in his age category at the Llandudno Sea Triathlon, an 800m sea swim, a 20Km bike leg and a 5km run to the finish line, which would have guaranteed qualification.

"However, I stupidly failed to register my interest to British Triathlon that I wanted to compete at the world championships, so my result didn't count. Naturally I was devastated, as I had trained so hard for this competition," he said.

A competition in Redcar in July gave Gaskin the last chance to qualify and fifth place over a 750m swim, 20k cycle and 5k, proved enough to earn a place.

"The realisation that I would be racing at such a huge event felt truly amazing. It's been a real fairytale for me," he added.

Glassboys bounce back at Barwell

Barwell 1 Stourbridge 2

STOURBRIDGE substitute Josh Cooke came off the bench to bag the winner in this fractious encounter.

It was set-up by another Glassboys replacement with Tom Tonks launching a throw into the box with his first touch of the game on his return to the club from Solihull Moors.

The Glassboys took the lead from the penalty spot after just four minutes. Matt Dodd jinked his way inside the Barwell area only to be upended by Liam Kay. RRyan Rowe made no mistake from the spot.

Home keeper Matt Gould was called on after a penalty was awarded to Barwell. He guessed correctly and pulled off the save from Ryan Robbins.

The visitors were awarded a second penalty 12 minutes after the break when Leon Broadhurst charged down a Nigel Julien shot with the use of his arm and Kyle Perry sent Gould the wrong way to level the scores.

Glassboys hit the winner 17 minutes from time through super-sub Cooke who volleyed in Tonks's throw-in.

Stalybridge 3 Stourbridge 1

Liam Dickinson slammed home a penalty for lowly Stalybridge four minutes before half-time after Gould had fouled Tom Brown. Dickinson then made it 2-0 with a low driven free-kick that whistled through the wall and in off the post. Alex Honeyball administered the final blow. Leon Broadhurst bagged Stour's consolation.

All came out of the swim well but Hathaway fell from his bike and had to pull out. Overall times were Southall 14:03:48 and Cowdale 14:03:19.

It was Ounsdale last club triathlon of the season for juniors. Winners: TSS Dylan Williams, TS1 Owen Ulf/Catherine Clews, TS2 Ben Lucas/Abbie Kennard, TS3 Zach Taylor/Holly Briscoe.
